

Prison stabbings called reaction to frustration

Some State Prison inmates have confided Sunday's flareup, culminating with the stabbing of four guards, might've been "a violent cry of frustration" over the way those in lockup are "mistreated."

"They get nothing, you hear, nothing," a prisoner from the aging facility at Michigan City said recently. He was in town for a court appearance, and said, while in Indianapolis, some of those in lockup were staging a hunger strike to dramatize their plight.

"The dailies in some cities are quoting the warden as saying it's a lockdown (keeping inmates in their cells), but actually it's a strike," the young man said.

Stern disciplinary action is expected to be taken against the three persons fingered by officials as being involved in the cuttings.

They're identified as Jack Woodrow Burnett, 23, Gary; Clarence Anthony Taylor Jr., 23, Indianapolis, and Frederick (Rocky) Wagner, 22, formerly of Indianapolis. Guards listed as injured are Dennis Moreland, 27, Lieutenant James Kimmel and Robert Cabanaw, both 32, and Howard Abbott, 39.

According to the account given papers, inmates became angered when one from the regular population was prevented from giving Burnett some cigarettes. Officials say persons in detention aren't suppose to receive commissary items from others.

Demands during the strike, according to the prisoner in town, included better medical treatment, a more equitable disciplinary system, elimination of favoritism and removal of "certain guards." He explained prisoners kept in lockup for security or disciplinary reasons sometimes had their medication substituted with non-prescribed drugs, meals sometimes consisted of "only baloney, and if 'somebody became suddenly ill at night, he was in trouble."

For one thing, the prisoner said, keys to the lockup were left at "the guard house some distance away. The men feel they should be left on lockup in case there's a medical emergency."

Another gripe, according to this same man, is that once an inmate is accused of doing something wrong, he has next-to-nothing in the way of defense.

"We think there should be better consideration toward individuals' defense pleas as well as opportunity to take polygraph tests. Usually the guards words are taken."

The flareup Sunday, according to reports, started when disgruntled inmates refused to return to their cells after a recreation period. Words were exchanged with guards and finally a scuffle broke out, and officials say, prisoners used homemade knives.

Taylor, one of those accused from Indianapolis, was convicted of being involved in the May 1978 robbery at the Varsity Lounge. Wagner, formerly of this city, was on a 2-10-year robbery conviction, until being sentenced to eight more years for the murder of another inmate.

It should be noted younger prisoners sometime request isolation as protection from homosexual attacks, and Burnett, serving a term for a 1975 murder, is awaiting trial for the October 19, 1981, murder of inmate Jerome Ellison, 28, who was one of two men Burnett claims raped him in his cell.

Democrats field slate of experienced candidates

Some pretty familiar faces are revving up for the last-minute pre-election push.

Joseph Smith, Democratic candidate for Marion County clerk, has been involved in the political arena for a long time. He worked at the Chrysler foundry for five years, and also has worked for the Urban League in its business development program. The Indianapolis native, who graduated from Cathedral high school, Marian College, and IUPUI law school, gained a great deal of political knowledge and experience working as an aide to former U.S. Senator Birch Bayh for four years.

Now throwing his own hat into the ring of politics, Smith says: "I really want to see the two-party system work. The theme of my campaign is 'seeking to make the system pay off.' I think that selections should be made on the basis of a candidate's character and expertise rather than just being the party candidate. The parties in Marion County have gone too long without recognizing the talented people of our community."

Smith says that Birch Bayh was a strong role model, and that he learned a great deal under his tutelage. "I feel that local government needs to be more humane in meeting the public's needs," states Smith. "The purpose of government should not be to punish people, but to make it more convenient for them to take advantage of its services." To this end, he would like to change policies to enable fathers to make support payments by mail, rather than requiring them to make a personal appearance to pay at the City-County Building.

"I would also like to set up community educational programs" to inform the public about the duties and responsibilities of the clerk's office, so that people will better understand how the office functions and how to use it, Smith says.

William Crawford, a Democrat running for state representative in District 51, is a 10-year legislative veteran who is currently serving on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee. This committee reviews and prepares the state's budget and makes appropriations of state funds.

"We need to elect experienced people," Crawford says. "We need people who know the system and understand the process. With the block grants programs coming back to the states, the representatives we send to the state legislature assume much more importance."

Crawford urges all registered citizens to go to the polls in November. "This is your chance to make a statement about the current state of the economy and how it is affecting you," he says. "Republicans have had ample time and opportunity to address these concerns. It is obvious to anyone observing that they have failed. There should be a strong push to the polls to give the Democrats their opportunity to make a difference. People need to understand that the current unemployment situation is the result of a conscious political decision, and that their vote does make a difference."

Joseph Summers is also a long-time legislative veteran from the same district. He has served in the Indiana House of Representatives since 1977, and has carried Helena Harris will join 29 other finalists Monday in the 1982-83 "Miss Brickhouse" pageant in St. Peter Claver Center. A native of Atlanta, Ga., the 25-year-old Aquarian has lived eight months in Indianapolis. She is a graduate of Atlanta Business College, where she studied communications and secretarial science. She toured three seasons with Ebony Fashion Fair and was a contestant in Atlanta's "Miss Brickhouse" contest during the 1977 Commodore Extravaganza Tour. Measuring 36-26-36, Miss Harris enjoys modeling, ice skating and swimming. Monday's pageant will be sponsored by WTLC-FM.

Patrolman's shotgun blast halts car-theft suspect

An Indianapolis man—one of four men who allegedly robbed a man of his 1973 Oldsmobile at gunpoint in the downtown area early Tuesday morning, was shot several hours later after disobeying a patrolman's order to halt.

IPD Homicide Sgt. Louis Christ said the suspect-victim, 35-year-old John D. Bibb, W. 42nd, was shot around 4 a.m. Tuesday by Patrolman Mark Carrico.

Christ said that following the shooting, Robert Jones, 24, identified Bibb as one of four men who approached him around 2:30 that morning as he left the Clique Lounge, 117 N. Illinois. Jones reported that one of the men showed a handgun before the quartet took his car—heading north on Illinois.

Patrolman Carrico said he spotted a vehicle on East 38th matching the description of the stolen car and when he stopped it, Bibb jumped out the passenger side and began to run. Carrico said he ordered Bibb to halt—firing a warning shot into the air.

When Bibb didn't stop, Carrico said, he shot once.

Hit by shotgun pellets from a distance of approximately 80 feet, Bibb was struck in the head, neck and back before collapsing. He was taken to Wishard—his condition upgraded some 24 hours later from critical to satisfactory.

The shooting automatically goes before IPD's Firearms Review Board.

Bibb was charged with vehicle theft and robbery with a deadly weapon. A second suspect arrested after the shooting, Jeffrey Bridges, 25, Hovey, was charged on similar counts. Police said chances were good of apprehending the other two suspects, although no arrests had been made as of late Tuesday.

A 17-year-old girl, who produced identification from Columbus, Ohio, and who was driving the car Bibb jumped from, was arrested as a juvenile and charged with vehicle theft. Police said the suspects may have met the woman following the robbery.

Patrice Rushen winners

Five lucky readers of The Indianapolis Recorder and their guests will see the first local concert appearance of one of contemporary black music's most talented performers absolutely free.

Their names were drawn Wednesday at random from a 1982 record 581 entries received for The Recorder's Patrice Rushen ticket give-away.

All from Indianapolis, the winners were awarded a pair of tickets each to the singer-keyboardist's 9 p.m. Saturday concert in the Expo Center's 500 Ballroom. The winners were notified by phone and will have until 6 p.m. Friday to claim their prizes.

Here are the winners:
Toni Hall
Lynn Dianna Harvey
Patricia Jackson
Troy Liggins
Dolores Roddy
Miss Rushen, 28, will visit Purdue University at West Lafayette Friday. Her show will include selections from her current "Straight From The Heart" album like "Forget-Me-Nots," which is one of her first pop hits; "Break-out!" and "Remind Me." Her popular oldies include "Hang It Up" and "Haven't You Heard."

She got her first piano at age five and, with loads of encouragement from her parents, studied classical piano before turning professional in the early 1970s. The petite (4-11) Miss Rushen won the 1972 Monterey Jazz Festival talent competition and recorded her first album at 19 for the Prestige label.

Her strong business acumen led to the formation of Baby Fingers Music, Co., which publishes her songs, and Class Acts, a talent agency.

The Saturday night concert will include an appearance by comedian Larry Donel of the "Young Comedians" cable TV series and be followed by an afterset for ticketholders only in the Speakeasy nightclub, Keystone at the Crossing.

Hatcher among PUSH negotiators; Ford to lead Busch talks

CHICAGO—

Tuskegee, Ala. Mayor Johnny Ford will head an Operation People United to Serve Humanity (PUSH) team of Gary, Ind. Mayor Richard Hatcher and eight other negotiators in trade agreement talks with Anheuser-Busch, Co.

The Chicago-based organization last month called for a nationwide boycott of Busch products, charging the nation's largest beer maker with racial bias in its employment, distributorship, and media advertising programs, among other allegations.

Ford, president of the 212-member National Conference of Black Mayors, told reporters the conference board stands 100 percent behind the boycott.

"Our board of directors has voted unanimously to support PUSH and its boycott of Busch and Budweiser. That's the message we send to corporate America: We want our fair share!"

Among those who will join Ford, Hatcher and national PUSH President Rev. Jesse Jackson on the bargaining team are Congressman Walter Fauntroy, chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus; Maryland State Sen. Clarence Mitchell, chairman of the National Conference of Black State Legislators; Rev. B.W. Smith, head of the PUSH National Selective Patronage Council; and Addie Wyatt, international vice-president of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union.

No meeting date was announced.

A number of black organizations, including the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, have spoken against the boycott in recent weeks. But PUSH won another vote of confidence last week when

Radiothon on

The second Operation PUSH Radiothon began Thursday on Monument Circle, with national president Rev. Jesse Jackson in town hoping the fund-raiser will beat last year's $62,000 total.

WTLC-FM will broadcast the event through Sunday. Proceeds will benefit both the local and national PUSH chapters.

Jackson will make a number of personal appearances during his three-day visit.

the student association of Howard University in Washington, D.C., the nation's largest predominantly black college, supported the boycott by charging Busch with "racist, exploitive practices."

Both sides have accused one of trying to discredit the other. Jackson charged Busch with mounting a campaign to "discredit PUSH for our economic justice movement."

"But we are not playing a personality game. We're fighting for black America's share of fair trade with corporate America."

A spokesman for the St. Louis, Mo. brewery argued the company is "the victim of a set-up orchestrated by Rev. Jackson and PUSH."

However, throughout the controversy, Busch has continued its support of the four-year-old "Lou Rawls Parade of Stars" telethon to benefit the United Negro College Fund and, according to another spokesman, the company "may continue to stand behind the Howard

Quayle jobs program is signed by Reagan

WASHINGTON—

Refuting claims that next month's election forced him to act quickly on the matter, President Reagan Wednesday signed into law a job training program designed by Indiana Sen. Dan Quayle to replace the old Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) during Fiscal 1983.

The signing came two weeks after the measure gained full congressional approval. It passed the Senate unanimously and the House 339-12 to mark the Republican junior senator's first major legislative victory.

"This program will create training and employment opportunities for more than one million Americans," Reagan said during signing ceremonies in the White House. "It is more than just another dead-end, bureaucratic boondoggling program."

The President responded to

charges from several Democratic leaders, including House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, that the Quayle program is ineffective and Reagan only supported it because a number of top congressional seats will be up

PAY RESPECTS: Clergymen (in top photo) watched pallbearers place casket of Bishop James L. Cummings in hearse following memorial rites last Saturday in Trinity Christian Methodist Episcopal Church. Funeral services for the Bishop were also held last Friday at Los Angeles, where he had presided over the CME's Ninth Episcopal District until his death October 3 at his Los Angeles residence. The sullen expressions shared by many toward his passing appeared even more evident (in bottom photo), as mourners stood in long line outside church waiting to pay their final respects to the Bishop, whose early ministry consisted of a 12-year pastorate at Trinity and the re-building of the structure on the city's near eastside. The Crispus Attucks High School alumnus and former City Councilman was laid to rest shortly after the 1 p.m. services in Crown Hill Cemetery. (Recorder photos)

Carroll's plan would help small businesses

At a joint news conference Tuesday at minority-owned WAFCO, Inc., Michael A. Carroll, Republican 10th District candidate and economist Benjamin Fernandez proposed an eight-point plan to assist small businesses and encourage jobs and investment.

Carroll said, "Small businesses are the life blood of our Indianapolis economy. More than 70 percent of all new jobs created locally in recent years have been developed in businesses with less than 20 employees."

"Today, Mr. Fernandez and I are proposing an eight-point plan to create incentives for small and minority businesses to expand and locate in our central cities, thus stimulating capital investment and job development," Carroll said.

The plan includes:
-Effective use of the Certified Development Company

designations through Mid-City Pioneer Corporations (Section 503) to provide expanded financing for small businesses in their central city target areas.

Support for innovative projects encouraging the location and relocation of small and minority businesses in Indianapolis i.e. Downtown Industrial Mall concept (10th and Capitol), Devington Shopping Center Revitalization Project (46th and Arlington), and Rural/1-70 Industrial Park.

Encouragement of the continued targeted and prudent use of Community Development Block Grant funds to capitalize the Indianapolis Business Development Foundation for small and minority business loans and neighborhood storefront commercial revitalization programs.

NAACP officers election near

The Greater Indianapolis Chapter NAACP is still scheduling meetings of prime importance leading up to the election of officers.

Scheduled so far are:
October 19, 7:30 p.m., at Pearls Ballroom, 118-1/2 McLain Place, Nominating Committee, and November 4, 7:30 p.m., Pearls Ballroom, annual report of officers, Nominating Committee report and election of Supervisory Committee.

The election itself will be held December 2 at Pearls, with the polls open from noon until 6 p.m.

To be eligible to cast ballots, a person must be a member in good standing for at least 30 days prior to these meetings.

Meet candidates

The public has a chance to meet and question 10th District Congressional and County Clerk candidates during an open forum Saturday.

It'll be held, beginning at 4:30 p.m., in Trinity CME Church, 23rd and Martindale, sponsored by the Young Adult Christian Task Force.

Congressional candidates Mike Carroll and incumbent Andy Jacobs will be on hand as well as opponents in the clerk contest, Joe Smith and incumbent Bud Gohmann.

ted loans, Section 8-A "set-asides," technical and managerial assistance efforts that provide business and job creation opportunities.

Fernandez, an economist and former Republican presidential candidate who is in town to support Carroll's candidacy, said, "The small businessman is the last rugged individualist in America. Our government should do everything possible to help them make it easier for them to succeed."

Time For Talk

By William "Skinny" Alexander

Let's get back to the 25th and martindale incident that happened a few weeks back. Some blacks are complaining they were out and out harassed by police, some of it totally uncalled for, like a most unusual narcotics search.

They say two white policemen made them drop their trousers in broad daylight, searching for "Tees and Blues."

One officer commented, "We were looking for Tees and Blues, and the only way to find was to embarrass somebody and perhaps the Tees and Blues would show up."

I've always been under the impression that the Narcotics Squad had the authority to search for drugs among suspected pushers, or users. I'm not staying I'm right. Maybe something new has been added. However, this happening doesn't sit too well with some of the people who witnessed this particular incident. As I said last week, it doesn't take much to stir up that area of the city. I'm hoping something will be done by the proper authorities before things really get out of hand.

Assistant Police Chief Joe Shelton has promised a full scale investigation, and wants the men involved (those told to drop their trousers) to see him. He promises there'll be no reprisals.

And as I promised last week, here's a short rundown on Sheriff candidate Don "Diamond" Gilman. I like to call him "The Spoiler," because he's notorious for wrecking other candidates' chances.

During his previous term, when he took office in 1977, Sheriff Gilman was up daily at 5 a.m. and stayed on the job. It's to be noted that reports indicate that in 1977, Marion County residents enjoyed the largest reduction in crime in recent years.

Also this particular statement was issued on Gilman's affirmative action stance: "Regardless of race, color, sex or political affiliation, that's how Don Gilman has hired and promoted personnel within the Sheriff's Department. An affirmative action program is underway that will provide this department with new hiring procedures for prospective employees, along with a fair objective promotional procedure as well as an objective evaluation system for all officers."

Gilman attended the multi-week Sheriff's Training School held in California in order to acquire the formal knowledge available from the most professional sources in the country.

Listed as the "greatest improvements" during his 13 month term are:

A wrecker was purchased to reduce the cost of contractual expenditures.

New criminal identification van.

Promoted female deputies. Accident prevention kits were purchased for all patrol officers.

Division consolidations. The first repainting of the inside of the jail.

Promotions on merit, rather than party.

Gilman, who moved to Indianapolis in 1958, has been in the finance business for 30 years. He's presently employed as president of Paramount Acceptance Corporation and secretary-treasurer of Pennsylvania 21st Century Health Spas, which operate several health spas in the Philadelphia-Wilkes Barre-Scranton, Pennsylvania area.

He's described as a "formerly lifetime Democrat" and strong supporter of former Mayor John Barton, former Judges John Christ and Ernie Burke, former Secretary of State Larry Conrad, former Senator Birch Bayh, and last but not least, former Sheriff Larry Broderick.

In March of this year, Gilman was the only person elected by a majority of the deputies on the first ballot out of 15 nominees to serve as their representative on the MCSB Merit Board.

He's a member of masonic Lodge 431, Scottish Rite, Murat Shrine, Shrine Police Club, Antelope Club, Elks Country and the Methodist Church.

Talked with long-time friend Carlean Young, and boy is she still as vivacious as she was a few years ago. Carlean, as most of you remember, was "the queen" of hair styling, a genuine expert at making any woman beautiful. She's still located at 3240 North Illinois. So, if you want that young and beautiful look, stop by and see Carlean. Tell her you read it here.

And here's a thought: Compassion is the capacity to put love into action. See you next week.

By the way...

By Joe Black

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an effort to uplift the morale of America's citizens during World War II, said: "We have nothing to fear but fear itself." But nothing stays the same and today those words have little meaning for many who are approaching the age for retirement.

Senior Citizens have many things to fear: insufficient funds, robbery, loneliness, poor housing, inadequate nutrition, and plain old indifference from society. But we should not let it be like that in these United States of America. Because through the years the older citizens have worked hard on many jobs; weathered the storm of bias and hatred; paid taxes to support this nation; fought in wars to preserve democracy; and endured the slams of bias as they struggled to open doors so that Blacks coming behind them could work at new and better jobs.

And yet many of us stand by silently and watch them struggle to live their remaining years with some dignity and pride. We can help by writing our political representatives and telling them that the Social Security laws must be amended so as to be relevant to today's economic requirements. We can alert the police about hoodlum elements that steal Social Security checks, snatch their purses, or break into their homes because they are old and defenseless. And we can take the time to extend the hand of friendship and a friendly hello, or an offer to run an errand.

The suggestions are simple, economical, and real, and my friends, don't ever forget that the hands of time continue to move, and soon they will be you.

Ministerial Alliance endorses Smith, first black slated for county clerk

The past week the Baptist Ministerial Alliance endorsed Joe Smith's candidacy to become the first black marion County Clerk.

If elected, Smith will be responsible for all 45 court rooms in the county, with some 120 staff persons under the control of the clerk's office.

Two of the most important roles as clerk will be the position of secretary of the Election Board. That entails making decisions on the kind of ballots or voting process to be used locally, as well as the location of voting machines.

And it's the clerk's office which certifies all elections in the county.

"This election," says Joe Smith, a Democrat, "can demonstrate that this is a two-party system in Marion County and that race is not a drawback in the election of Marion County officers."

The candidate is a most

How black households cope

Soaring unemployment calls for some radical adjustments

By Davita Watts
"Unemployment has pushed the nation to the brink of revolution," declares Benjamin Hooks, NAACP executive director. True enough, the jobless rate is still on the rise. This shows the economy is still in a recession. In August, the unemployment rate was 9.8 percent and this month the rate is 10.3 percent, which is considerably higher than the rate one year ago at this time.

However, "something is different about this August and September," says Indianapolis Area Labor Market analyst, Marc Thomas, with an air of hope. "Normally corporations have their low points in July, but this year they are just now reaching their low points, perhaps because of a delay in model changeover. These places include Ford, Chevrolet, and Chrysler Corporations.

"There is no indication that consumer spending will be fueling an upswing in the economy for at least several months still. This is because consumer credit is still very high."

The unemployed still seem to be very optimistic, even though many are faced with a lower standard of living.

"I was working maintenance and was laid off. My compensation is less than half a week of what I made before. I have a wife and a daughter to support. I am 26 years old and I'm sure many people have things worse than me," said Joe Radican.

"I am dependant on my family a lot more," explains William Stone, 30. "I really don't mke ends meet. I had a house and I had to give it up. I am doing without a lot of things that I am used to having. All the luxuries are gone. My wife and children are staying with her mom temporarily and I stay with my mom. I was a supervisor with Ken Kleen before I was laid off. I was just about as high as I could go in the company. Now the only way out is for me to return to school and try to learn a trade that is more in demand. With all the handicaps of being a black man, I don't know what else to do."

"I am trying to make ends meet by drawing unemployment," laments Jo Alice Porter, 28. "I just tell my bill collectors the same thing and they try to bear with me. I was terminated in January by FMC Corporation who had a tremendous budget cut. I've had to adjust my eating habits and the way I spend my money in general. For instance, I used to pay all my child's school expenses, but now I have to get assistance from social workers at the school."

"My husband and I are living with his parents," said an anonymous individual, 30. "I have been laid off since this summer. I'm hoping to go back to school, then start a business of my own. The Lord is in every plan."

Thomas, says that there are two upcoming movements that consumers should be aware. Retail trade employment will pick up during the Christmas season, but the economy will still be absorbing the loss of 800 to 900 jobs because of several factors. The Freightliner Truck Manufacturer, Amos Dash Hill Veneer, (which is tied to the housing market) in Southern Johnson County and the four area Woolco department stores will be closing right after Christmas.

"If the economy were healthy we would not have to worry about these corporations closing. The closings will somewhat negate any employment increases that take place," said Thomas.

"There has always been a base level of unemployment," says Donald Main, claims manager for the Indiana Employment Security Division. "We have had a moderate amount of unemployment claims. I feel strongly about the Employment Security Division in the community. We have an important role and we try hard to do a good job for people. I think people can see that. People who we have problems with are very rare, and I think that really says something about the basic qualities of human nature."

On the first Tuesday of every month, the International Association of Professional Inventors, Inc. hold their regular meeting. The latest went encouragingly well, reaching new concepts in areas of interest.

Our speakers for the evening were Ms. Jo Ann Spencer and Michael Miller. Ms. Spencer spoke on "Info Works," discussing on-line documents and data. Miller, from the Bloomington IAPI Chapter, doubles as president of the South Central Indiana Chapter. He's president of Univera Joiner Inds Inc., based on fastener principle inventions. He honored us with a very worthwhile proposal.

This month, a salute goes to Ernest R. Mills of Greenwood. A charter member of IAPI, he owns a business named TV Lock Company that bears watching.

The creative Mills will soon be advertising nationally his patented TV locking device. Watch for this most interesting way of controlling your children's television viewing.

Young, Gifted & Black By DaVita Watts

PRISCILLA WHITE

Married at the exceptionally early age of sixteen, Priscilla Dean White was young, willing and able to take full charge of her multi-dimensional career. "At least do something for yourself once or twice a week, even if you are a housewife," says Priscilla. "Learn to appreciate more of what's going on in the world instead of letting it pass you by."

Priscilla practices what she preaches, for she is a career woman during the morning and afternoon hours, employed by Wishard Memorial Hospital. She joined the work force there seven years ago in the Transportation Department and has constantly moved toward the top. After being in the Transportation Department over one year, Priscilla felt it was time for her to advance and requested a transfer to the File Room. After being there for one year, she worked in the Accounting Department for four years and felt that it was once again time for an advancement; hence, today she is Senior Collections Clerk.

"But I do not intend to stop here," Priscilla readily admits. "I plan to make a wonderful career for myself here at the hospital. My ultimate goal is to go into the business administration aspect of the hospital."

During the evening hours Priscilla brushes up on her domestic skills. She is the wife of Sherman White. The two have been united in wedlock for seventeen years. And this is only part of the story; for they have three products of love, Angel 16, Diniese 13 and Lamont 11.

As if she doesn't have enough to keep her busy, Priscilla has chosen to use her hobby, ceramics, as a part-time job. She sometimes has as many as 20 orders to fill a week.

Priscilla plans to take a management course which is offered by the hospital, in hopes of broadening her management abilities. She once received a certificate for attending a clerical skills center, and dropped out of Sewers Business College after one year.

Her words of advice are, "Don't stand still no matter what your goal is or how long it may take. It's alright to party but that won't take you through life. Get down to basics; learn a trade and don't be too proud to take a penny ante job. God does not promise you anything. You must have the faith to go after the things which you desire."

MEDIC meeting set Saturday

MEDIC, the westside community organization, will be holding a most important meeting Saturday, October 16, 3 p.m., at the Fall Creek YMCA, 860 West 11th.

Bill Carr, MEDIC president, says it's essential area residents attend, since there'll be vital information concerning redevelopment in the area.

The organization encompasses an area bounded by Senate Avenue on the east, 10th and 11th streets on the North and Indiana Avenue on the South.

Businesses within should have representatives present, too, Carr advises.

"Please, come out and be informed. This is strictly an informational meeting," he adds.

On the money
The Department of Parks and Recreation is hosting a regional fundraising training workshop October 25-29, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., at Eagle's Hide-A-Way, 8901 West 65th. This will be conducted by the Grantsmanship Center that presents similar programs throughout the country. Call 924-9151.

The big difference between the small independent drug store and the big chain drug store is that the independent drug store is fully dependent on neighborhood people for its survival, the big chain store depends on the size of its advertising budget for business.

When you come to Brocks Pharmacy your prescription will be filled just as your Dr. ordered by our professional pharmacist. (Not by the Electronic Machine) like you see on T.V. Don't get hooked on the big chains.

Vitamin C seems to protect against toxicity of environmental pollutants, say professors at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, and at MIT. Vitamin C in the stomach is said to protect against nitrates, radiation, etc.

New "invisible" braces, devised in Beverly Hills, are attached to the tongue side of the teeth. They require more care, but adult patients—especially those in high-visibility professions—feel they're worth it.

We keep up with the news of the world of medicine, the better to serve you at Brocks Pharmacy East 38th St. & Sherman Dr. Open every day 9:00 A.M. to 9:00 P.M. 547-1357. When your doctor prescribes the best, we do the rest.

GOT HIS MESSAGE ACROSS: With unemployment across the nation at a record 10.1 percent and disastrously higher in the black community, it serves to reason people would be overly eager to speak up about the gloomy situation. Not so as evidenced by Saturday's Partnership of Business and Labor for Jobs and Lower Interest Rates rally on Monument Circle. The turnout was disappointingly low, but Daryell Williams (pictured) wasn't to be denied having his say-so about being personally out-of-work. He showed up with a homemade poster declaring his personal sentiments and was given a few minutes to address the assemblage. (Jim Burres photo)

Investing now in your future.

We want to help with your future. Today. That's why at American Fletcher we're ready with money now... to make home improvements a reality, a new home affordable, or to get a small business out of the planning stages.

Home Improvement Loans

Every home at some time needs repairs or additions. When that home is yours, let us help with a Home Improvement loan. If you plan to add a new room, furnace, central air conditioning, or even landscaping, stop by any American Fletcher banking center and ask the manager about a Home Improvement loan. Now could be an ideal time to do it, because we have Home Improvement loans available for qualified borrowers at bank rates.

Home Equity Loans

If you need more cash for major expenses like college, debt consolidation, or starting a new business, your home may be worth $25,000.00 or more in cash. But you don't need to sell it to get the money you need. With a Home Equity loan from American Fletcher, the equity you've built up in your home over the years can start to work for you. Talk to any American Fletcher manager. He or she will be glad to explain how you can turn your home into money with an American Fletcher Home Equity loan.

VA, FHA, & Conventional Mortgage Loans

What in are for out, American Fletcher grants "free" mortgages than any other financial institution in the state of Indiana. One of the reasons for this is that we take the time to develop the best plan for you, so you can afford the home you want. Any banking center manager will be happy to discuss current rates, based on the amount, length and other factors of your loan. So whether you're looking for a VA, FHA, or Conventional loan, be sure and talk to us at American Fletcher.

Small Business Loans

American Fletcher knows starting a new business can be a big step. It's a risky venture, and it may be tough to get the money you need when you're just starting out. We work directly with the Small Business Administration to provide capital for business ventures which might not otherwise qualify for a loan from conventional sources.

In fact, we have now opened our own office specializing in SBA loans, just to help you get the funds you need.

Contact our SBA office at 2955 Northwestern Ave. Just call SBA loan officer Deborah Anderson at 639-7673. She'll be glad to help you get started, or answer any questions you might have about business loans.

Home Improvement, Home Equity, Mortgage, and Small Business loans. All available from American Fletcher National Bank, because we want to be your bank.

All American Fletcher loans are made without regard to race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

An evening with Mike Carroll

The special evening is being sponsored by The Women of the Indianapolis Black Republican Council and co-sponsored by a non-partisan group, the Indianapolis Chapter of The Minority Womens' Network on Friday, October 15, 1982 at 6 p.m.-8 p.m. at the Riley Towers, 600 North Alabama Street, Indianapolis, Indiana. Since November 2, 1982 is election day-it is just a few weeks away and hopefully this event will be an excellent opportunity for everyone to get as much information as possible about each and every candidate!

It has been emphasized frequently in the papers this month the fact that women make up over fifty percent of the eligible voters. We are in a vital power position because we possess such power. We must acquire the necessary knowledge and skills in order to make this power work to our advantage.

Receptions are just one of the vehicles we can use to accomplish our goals. This evening with Mike Carroll is a tribute to a candidate for his dedication and service to this city. He has been preparing for the job of Congressman of the new 10th District for the past seventeen years and his record demonstrates this fact. Mike has served Indianapolis as Deputy Mayor under Mayors Lugar and Hudnut. He also has held the positions of director of the Department of Metropolitan Development, and director of the Model Cities Programs. Mike was instrumental in this city being the beneficiary of his numerous professional accomplishments such as:

1. Development of the Merchants Plaza Hyatt Regency Complex.
  2. Implementation of the City's first capital improvement program.
  3. Development of market Square Arena.
  4. Renovation of the City Market.
  5. Establishment of the Urban Homestead Program.
  6. Development and implementation of the first /om-munity Development Grant and CETA Program.
  7. Preparation of the city's first neighborhood plans for Mapleton Fall Creek, Highland Brookside (NESCO), Midtown (Indiana Avenue) and the Model Cities area.
- We will all have other issues and questions clarified during this informal gathering at the Riley Towers on October 15, 1982 at 6:00 p.m. For further information contact: Bob Wilson at 635-8200 or Mary Ryder Taylor 927-0155 or 257-6865.

National Council of Negro Women planning benefit and program

The Central Indiana Section of the National Council of Negro Women is planning for an October 23 meeting, starting at 11 a.m. in Auntie Mame's Child Development Center, 1102 East 30th.

There'll be several objectives.

The Section is planning quite diligently the coming of an exciting benefit, set for November 20 in The Murat Temple, 510 North New Jersey.

The ladies will be hosting the musical review "Radio Man." Produced by Afro-Productions, New York City, "Radio Man" is a salute to the black songs of the 50's as seen through the eyes of the black disc jockey.

Also on the agenda for October 23 is a special speaker for the educational program. Sam Jones, Indianapolis Urban League president, will discuss issues pertaining to next month's election, budget cuts and how they effect certain groups.

NCNW members and friends are invited.

Finance Center workers retire

LOUISE NEAL

MARGARET STARKEY

Two dedicated ladies, with combined service records of nearly 60 years, retired September 29 from the U.S. Army finance and Accounting Center at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

They are Louise Neal, a military pay clerk, and Margaret Starkey, an accounts examiner.

Mrs. Neal, who came to work for the Center in 1952, left her job in the test and validation division of the Finance Network Quality Directorate to lead a life of "travel and enjoyment."

Mrs. Neal is a native of New Orleans, La., where she attended St. Mary's Academy and Straight Business College. She is a 32-year member of the Fidelis Social Club and lists her hobbies as sports and travel.

Mrs. Neal plans to travel to Las Vegas in her retirement, do other "travel and enjoy life." She and her husband, Lawrence, will continue to make their home in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Starkey, who worked in the fiduciary accounts section, pay services division, retired pay operations, first came to work at the Center in 1953. She is a graduate of Crispus Attucks High School and had been in her position since October 1975.

Her plans call for doing volunteer work with senior citizens at St. Paul's Nursing Home. She is a member of St. Paul Baptist Church.

"I really plan to make it easy," she said, "do a little reading, a little traveling and babysit one of my grandchildren."

Mrs. Starkey has five children; three daughters and two sons. They plan to have a special retirement party for her in late October when they all can get together.

"Two live in Indianapolis," she said. "One is in Rock Island, Ill., and the other two live in Schenectady, N.Y." She has four grandchildren.

Social worker becomes chief executive officer

Geneva Johnson

A national expert in planning and advocacy for human services has been chosen by Family Service Association of American Executive Committee to become the Association's next chief executive officer.

Mrs. Geneva Johnson, a senior vice-president of the United Way of America, will join FSAA as its top staff official at the beginning of 1983.

In her current United Way of America post, Mrs. Johnson is a trained social worker, in charge of government relations, public policy, and services outreach.

Her previous position with the United Way of America, also as a senior vice-president, involved responsibility for planning and allocations. Besides a bachelor's degree from Albright College in Reading, Pa., and a master's degree from Case Western Reserve University's School of Applied Social Services in Cleveland, her professional training included a certificate program in executive management at Harvard University.

Her achievements include her own "Geneva Johnson Day" proclaimed by the Mayor of Reading, Pa., in 1970 and a listen in Who Who's of American Women.

Starlighter crib causes baby death

WASHINGTON, D.C.-

The Consumer Product Safety Commission warned consumers that in excess of 1,000 "Starlighter" non-full size baby cribs manufactured between 1975 and 1978 by Contemporary Times, Inc., St. Petersburg, Florida, present a neck entrapment hazard.

A nine-month-old baby died as a result of asphyxiation when her neck became entrapped in the crib slats. The "Starlighter" crib is made of plastic and has hinged fold-down side rails. When the top half of the side rail is folded down, the lower half of the side rail presents a picket fence configuration in which the baby's neck may become entrapped.

In addition the entrapment hazard, the baby may fall out of the crib and sustain injury as a result of improper crib side height.

Consumers should immediately discontinue the use of the "Starlighter" crib. There is no adequate and feasible "fix" for the entrapment hazard. Consumers should not attempt to make such a "fix" because it is most likely to present other hazards to babies. For further information call Toll-free (800)-638-8326.

The average baby doubles his original weight at about 5 months of age.

BEEF AND BOARDS will be the setting for Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Alpha Sigma Chapter's Talent Show and Luncheon Extravaganza on October 23, 1982. Featured will be contestants displaying their talents in vocal, drama, instrumental music and creative expression. The judges will include such local personalities as Anderson Dailey, Larry Leggett, Laverne Newsome, MaryEtta Rose and Gilbert Taylor. The public is cordially invited to attend this exciting event. All proceeds will go to Alpha Sigma Chapter's Scholarship Fund. For Ticket information, please call 293-3761 or 924-3793.

Lia's sparkler

Lia Finney

Lia Finney, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Brigham, 1538 Asbury, has been selected as a "sparkler" for the United Way campaign.

A member for nine years, she will represent Concord Center Association, one of six neighborhood which receive financial support from United Way. This year, Indianapolis Settlements, Inc., is receiving $699,166 from United Way. Lia participates in basketball, pingpong, pool and softball at Concord and is also an active volunteer. She is interested in social work and "likes to help with the children."

She is her family's fourth generation member at Concord. Her mother and her grandmother, Mrs. Bettie Jones, 2941 N. Talbott, are also members, as is Lia's great-great aunt, 84-year-old Mrs. Nancy Presswood, 1141 S. Illinois Street.

Lia, 15, is a sophomore at Emmerich Manual High School where she is an "A" student, a member of Spanish Club, writes sports and other features for the school newspaper, participates in girls' basketball and is a student manager for the girls' track team.

Lia aspires to attend either Indiana University or UCLA to learn aviation and computer technology with the objective of becoming a police department helicopter pilot.

Club's memorial program slated Sunday morning

The Bachelor Benedict Club will continue its 80th anniversary observance with a memorial service for their deceased members Sunday, October 17, 11 a.m., at Mount Paran Baptist Church, 3425 Boulevard Place.

Rev. B.F. Sims will deliver the sermon and the families and friends of the deceased members are invited to attend.

A BEAUTIFUL tea was held in the home of Mrs. Geneva Murphy, for the Jack and Jill of America Associate members. Mrs. Murphy is the president of the local chapter. The next meeting will be held October 24 at the home of the chairperson, Mrs. Edith Fields. Those members of the Jack and Jill chapter are encouraged to attend. Front row: Marguerite Hart, secretary; LauWana Payne, co-chairperson; Edith Fields, chairperson; and Delores Hummons, treasurer. Back row: Lillian Stokes, Doris Bullard, Anna Dailey, Irma Farthing, Millerson Hall, Sarah Daniel, Wilma Simms, Jewell LaRue, Clarice Officer, Doris Bradford, Geneva Murphy and Judy Smith.

Indianapolis NOW chapter launches new member month

October is "New Member Month" for the Indianapolis Chapter of the National Organization for Women. The membership drive is part of an overall effort by NOW to recruit more than a million members through local chapter activities and a major television and print advertising campaign.

"We will double our membership locally," predicts Ms. Carol Myers and Ms. Michelle Moscato, Co-Presidents for the Indianapolis Chapter of NOW. "Women are especially angry by the defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment and by the assaults of the Reagan Administration's unfair roll-backs on programs that disproportionately hurt women. Locally, for example, there have been CETA cuts, legislative reversals, Legal Services Organization cuts, and general lack of attention to all Civil Rights issues. Unless we all join together, women

Women will learn of legal rights

The legal rights of women is a growing concern. The law seems to be constantly changing. Where do you begin? Do you know how to go about selecting land using legal assistance? Do you know what the laws in Indiana say? What are your legal rights and responsibilities?

Your answers to these and other questions on women's legal rights will be answered at a special program open to the public. "Guide To Legal Assistance" will be held October 27, 1982 at 10 a.m. The program will be held at the Marion County Cooperative Extension Service, 2945 N. Meridian Street, Indianapolis. Sharon Wiley, founder of Women's Legal Clinics, will be the guest speaker.

Plan to attend this informal, but very informative session. For information, contact Janet Coapstick, Extension Agent at 848-7351 or 253-0871.

Quilting Series teaches craft

October 28, November 4, 11, 18 and December 2, 1982 are the dates set for the new Quilting Series offered by the Marion County Cooperative Extension Service. The sessions will be held at the Extension Office, 9245 N. Meridian St., Suite 118, Indianapolis from 9:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m.

Participants will learn about the history and superstitions of quilting. Squares using patch, applique, crazy, stained glass and cathedral quilting will be made in class.

Each participant will receive a quilting booklet containing 16 patterns. Reservations are confirmed upon receipt of $5 fee as the class will be limited. Please call 848-7351 or 253-0871 to register.

Career Day at 35
Principal Mary T. Hardy of Indianapolis Public School 35, located at 209 East Raymond, is pleased to announce the school will host Career Day for students Friday, October 15, from 9:30 a.m. until noon.

Guidance counselor Robert Moseman, planner and coordinator for the event, encourages all parents to attend. Purpose of Career Day is to expose students to first-hand information about various careers. There'll be demonstrations and talks about jobs, careers and the role school plays in the work world.

It is hoped as many parents as possible will attend.

Parents In Touch
Jonathon Jennings School 109, 6150 Gateway Drive, will be participating in the city-wide Parents In Touch Program. Students will not be required to report for classes October 20. Instead, the school will be open from 1-8 p.m.

Teachers will schedule conferences with parents during these hours to discuss their child's progress. School 109 attained 100 percent attendance by parents last year, and hopefully will do so this year. Those with questions should call the school, 266-4109.

Senior Gold
The Indianapolis Public Schools, Public Relations Office, has developed the "Golden Card" for Indianapolis senior citizens. The cardholder will be allowed free admission to all IPS activities, such as basketball and football games (excluding tournaments), concerts and plays. To obtain them, senior citizens may call 266-4649, or write Harriett Bennett, Public Relations Officer, Indianapolis Public Schools, 120 East Walnut, Indianapolis 46204.

Rental Due
All parents of IPS students are reminded that payment for books, fees and supplies will be delinquent after Monday, November 8. Parents who have not made arrangements to pay should do so immediately in order to avoid delinquency.

Parents who cannot pay should contact the nearest Indianapolis Public School and apply for assistance.

Helen Baker
New V.P.
Ms. Helen E. Baker has been appointed Assistant Principal at Greenbriar Elementary School in Washington Township.

Ms. Baker explained that some of the duties of an assistant principal include management of the school's textbook and supply system; supervision of students; curriculum leadership and discipline responsibility.

Prior to her recent appointment she served as reading coordinator for John Strange School and was a classroom teacher at White River, both Washington Township Elementary schools.

Ms. Baker has an AB Degree in English, a Masters Degree in Elementary Education and is currently pursuing a Doctoral Degree in School Administration, all at Indiana University.

Eastside News

By Clema V. Rogers

The Progressive Club opened their club year on Friday, October 8 at the home of Mrs. Geneva Watts, president who presented the echoes from the 1982 state convention.

Highlights from the fall executive board meeting were reported by Mrs. Sarah Shearer. The names of three prospective members were submitted and accepted. They will be notified and invited to the next club meeting.

Plans were made for the 1982 Christmas party. The next meeting is on October 22.

The Woman's Council is scheduled to meet in the home of Marie McClutchison, October 16. The address is 2004 E. 25th Street, Apt. D. All members are asked to be present. Reports will be made on the 1982 state meeting and the home coming held in September. Important plans will be made to renovate 'our club home'.

All women are encouraged to unite with the Federation of Colored Women's Clubs. Mrs. Clema Rogers, president. Christmas plans will be made at the next meeting. Their motto is: Step by step, we reach the heights, lifting as we climb.

The Golden Leaf federated club met Saturday, October 9 in the home of Mrs. Helma Lisco Green, 3333 Boulevard Place, Apt. 105. Mrs. Sadie Hardiman, president, was welcomed from her visit in California. Two members were accepted: Mrs. Nettie Jane Gee and Mrs. Maria Jones. The next meeting place will be announced.

Eager to be welcomed home

NAQUITA and PAUL

Naquita, age 4 and Paul, age 7, are a brother and sister team who need a home together.

They are friendly, helpful and well adjusted children who enjoy fishing and going to the zoo with their foster family.

Paul is in second grade this year, working at grade level and enjoying school. Outside of the classroom, Paul loves to play outdoors. He can be found riding his bike or playing ball. Superman and Spiderman are his current heroes and favorite television characters.

Naquita is described as a "little mother." She is usually found with her dolls or toy dishes. Naquita is borderline diabetic. Her foster mother has successfully controlled the condition by avoiding all sweets and watching her diet.

Paul and Naquita have lived in a foster home for a year and a half. They have adjusted well and should do the same in an adoptive family. Their new family should not have too many young children as they will demand considerable attention. However, their foster mother believes they'll have no trouble "fitting right in." Can you provide a permanent home for Paul and Naquita, or other children like them?

Persons interested in learning more about adoption should call Homes for Black Children, 545-5281.

Beneft for women in medical field

Some leading men in the medical field here will be sharing the runway with their wives October 17 when Me-De-Phar Guild presents its annual fundraiser fashion show and luncheon.

Me-De-Phar (Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical) Guild was organized in 1944 for the purpose of fostering better relations between the public and members of allied health professions. Also to help provide better health facilities for the community. Its membership is made up of wives of men in the medical profession and women who have such careers.

Women modeling during the extravaganza set to start at 2 p.m. in the Athletic Club are Billie Moore (Mrs. Andrew), Barbara Williams (Mrs. James), Norma Gordon (Mrs. O.T.), Carolyn Wright (Mrs. Melvin), Pamela Yancey (Mrs. Eric), Barbara Clark (Mrs. Edward), Emma Cox (Mrs. Chester), Marilyn Jones (Mrs. Randolph), Vivian White (Mrs. Reuben), Louise Batties (Mrs. Paul) and Cora Young (Mrs. John).

Gents getting their turn will be Ray L. Henderson M.D., Robert Stokes D.D.S., Charles Meriweather D.D.S., Reuben White D.D.S., Harold Ervin D.D.S. and John Smith M.D.

Themed "Reflections of Fashions," the well-planned show is intended to raise money for scholarships for young women in allied health fields.

Styles will be from Key-stone-At-The-Crossing Fashion Mall Raleigh Limited Roly's, Penelope's, and Gatties' and Michael's shoes.

The guild's first fundraising effort benefited Wishard (then General) Hospital. For the last several years, proceeds have been used for scholarships.

Door prizes and luncheon will be provided for guests. Persons are urged to contact guild members for tickets.

Lula Rawls is Me-De-Phar president, Ann Henderson, fashion show chairman, and Lavonne Washington, publicity chairman.

Prince Hall Shriners receive scholarship funds

DENVER--

Over the years, The Prince Hall Shriners have received more than $10,000 in educational scholarships funded by The Coca-Cola Co. This commitment was reaffirmed during their annual convention held recently in Denver.

This week's question is: How do you feel about the National Football League's Strike?

Toby Wiley, 25, "I do not like it. I really miss Monday night football. I think they are asking for way too much money. The salary that they were making was good enough."

Vickie Gilkey, 23, "I feel really good about the strike. I hope that it continues indefinitely. This way I can watch whatever I choose to watch on television, instead of watching football with my husband."

Dwight Staton, 34, "I do not think the football players should get paid any more money. They already are overpaid, but then so are all other professional sports players."

Hannis Williams, 70, "I really miss the football games! I'm with the football players 100 percent. They should get paid whatever they ask for because it is a very dangerous sport. They should hurry and settle this and get the games going."

Joe Pettigrew, 44, "I wish they would hurry and settle the whole thing. I feel that the people playing on the line should get as much money as the backfield. It's just not fair for one part to get paid more, because they all work together for a common goal."

Andre Thomas, 17, "I like football and I really miss watching it. I do not think all the players get paid enough. Some of the players are definitely due pay increases."

John Buckner, 29, "I don't like the strike one bit. I love watching football, especially on Sunday. I wish they would hurry and come to some sort of agreement. I am not on anyone's side right now, I'm just caught in the middle."

Bernice Shoffner, 74, "I like sports, but I am not into football. I don't understand it like I do other sports. It really won't have a big impact on my life."

Charles Walker, 34, "I don't like the strike. They all have the money coming to them. They need to collect a lot of money now since they are in a very dangerous contact sport. They won't be able to work very long, so they must save for the future and the future of their loved ones. I even predicted that the players would go on strike before this happened."

Paula Russell, 22, "I am appalled about the strike. I feel that the football players get paid too much money. The way the economy is now nobody should be asking for a raise if they make as much or even nearly as much as those football players do. Now is no time to be petty about financial affairs."

Longer hours for Goodwill

Recorder treats seniors to day at the Circus

THE INDIANAPOLIS RECORDER PAGE 7
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1982

RAIN DID not go away and neither did the series seniors. Seniors from United Northwest Area, Southside, 1840 Perkins, Brightwood Community Center, Christmore House and residents of Indianapolis were guest of the Recorder Newspaper for a day at Ringling Brother Circus on Thursday, October 7 at the 11 a.m. matinee. Lathan Frayser, a gentleman as he is, tried his best to protect the ladies from the weather. From left to right: Roxy Bridges, Annabelle Jarrett,

SEEKING HAPPINESS
Seeking happiness?
Don't fret when things go wrong
Often some misfortunes
Tend to make us strong:
Everyday cannot be sunny,
All nature needs the rain,
Even the one most healthy
Will sometimes suffer pain:
Friends are they who help us,
Whether rich or poor,
Sharing, giving, loving,
With them you can be sure.

Not all who may surround us
Show love in every way,
Some take, and never come to give,
To them, you still can say,
"Strength comes to me from
God each day,
And love from all who care,
They fill my life with happiness,
All troubles I can bear;
What compensations I'll receive will come from God above, or only God and I will know
Those worthy of my love."

Lynn Ford's people

Natalie Cole is suffering from an undisclosed illness and her famous mother has petitioned Los Angeles Superior Court for conservatorship powers over both the Grammy-winning singer and her estate.

According to a Los Angeles Herald Examiner story published last Saturday, Maria Cole also asked the court to find her 31-year-old daughter unable to give informed consent for medical treatment.

"She is too ill to take care of herself," the widow of singing legend Nat "King" Cole said in the petition. "She is unable to properly provide for her personal needs for physical health, food, clothing or shelter."

Mrs. Cole didn't elaborate on the nature of her daughter's illness.

Miss Cole's former husband, Rev. Marvin Yancy, last month married a 26-year-old member of his Chicago church choir. Parents of five-year-old Robert Yancy, the couple divorced two years ago.

As a producer and songwriter for Miss Cole, Yancy was responsible for some of the biggest record hits of the 1970s, including "I've Got Love On My Mind," "Mr. Melody" and "Our Love." He blamed the failure of the couple's three-year marriage on "long-distance travel."

"I wanted to pastor in Chicago and she wanted to base her career in Los Angeles," Yancy told Jet last month. "So we divorced and remain friends."

Earlier this year, Miss Cole said she would like to record an album of her father's hits, like "Mona Lisa," "That Sunday, That Summer" and "The Christmas Song." Her last major hit was Michael Masser's "Someone That I Used to Love" in 1980.

Contrary to reports, Diana Ross has fond memories of Berry Gordy Jr., the Motown Records bigwig who launched her to fame as lead singer of the Supremes in the 1960s.

She recalls the 1957 day she, Mary Wilson and the late Florence Ballard first met Gordy. They were teenagers and eager to get into the record business.

"He was very sweet and concerned about how young we were," she said during a promotional tour behind her new "Muscles" single and "Silk Electric" album. "He immediately began giving us this lecture about staying in high school. It wasn't what any of us wanted to hear, so we kinda made a deal. He'd let us sing backup on some of the records he was putting out if we didn't drop out of school."

Bottom lines: Nickolas Ashford and Valerie Simpson led more than 10,000 participants from NYC's Central Park to Harlem last Saturday during a United Negro College Fund walkathon...Jayne Kennedy will have the lead in the forthcoming Dorothy Dandridge film...Look for a new album from Ind's Robert Turner and the Silver Hearts...Billboard's No. 1 black single 10 years ago this week was James Brown's Get on the Good Foot, Part I...the recent column item about former Merging Traffic member Ricky Knox joining Cameo is untrue...Bassist Paul Thomas smoothing out tracks for an album by one of Ind's newest groups, The Root Band...Paul McCartney will appear on Michael Jackson's "The Girl is Mine" single...Demond Wilson feels his forthcoming TV series, "The New Odd Couple," will help open the door again for black actors, directors and writers...Gladys and Bubba Knight have recorded a new theme for TV's "Love, Sidney."

The largest coral reef in the world is the Great Barrier Reef near the northeast coast of Australia. It extends 1,250 miles.

Tau's international fiesta a real treat

The National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa, Tau Chapter, is revelling in the huge success of their "International Fiesta," especially gratified by the input of "sorority friends."

It was like a multi-cultural travelogue as some 200 guests piled into the Hyatt-Regency's Celebration Hall Saturday, September 25.

Each table carried a foreign country's theme, done up individually in glaring colors adhering to certain designs. Some of the most decorative represented Africa, Japan, Italy, India, Holland and Russia, to name a few.

Since music is beloved worldwide, there was a special presentation. Stephen White, Indianapolis Public Schools musical consultant, directed a group of gifted students. The students seemed to have an extra sense for the various rhythms, enjoying the performance just as much as the audience.

Next came more talented students, performing some entrancing exotic dances. They danced to their hearts' content with style and grace. And not to be overlooked were two singers and a fine instrumentalist who were dy-

Committee members responsible for this fine outing were Mrs. Rosena Johnson, chairperson; Mrs. Dolores Higgins, co-chairperson; Mrs. Harriette Cheatham, Mrs. Susan Bryant, Mrs. Frances White, Mrs. Juan Solomon and Mrs. Mary Etta Rose, chapter Basileus.

Big Sisters sponsor fright fest and fun

Big Sisters of Greater Indianapolis—a social service agency which provides positive caring relationships for young girls with adult women volunteers on a one-to-one basis is sponsoring an annual Halloween Party for all Big and Little Sisters on Saturday, October 30 from noon until 2:30 pm at Mt. Zion Baptist Church, 3500 N. Graceland.

This year's 'fright fest' will feature Mildred the Witch who will entertain with ghost stories, magic, and fortune telling. A costume judging contest will bring out the ghouliness in everyone.

Terre Haute hosting NBPW area gathering

TERRE HAUTE--Terre Haute Negro Business and Professional Women's Club will host the annual North Central District Area meeting Saturday, October 23, at the Holiday Inn (I-70 and U.S. 41 South).

The meeting starts at 10 a.m. preceded by 9 a.m. registration. Reservations can be made by contacting Naomi Moore, secretary, 300 North 23rd, Terre Haute, Indiana 47807, (812) 232-0792. Reservations should be made no later than October 16. Mary K. Kay is local NBPW president.

MINORITY BUSINESS

PHILLIP SAXTON

This is part of my series on employees. The American worker has changed...some of these changes have been good and some bad. The young employee seems to have a difficult problem coping in today's workplace. When you combine youth, the union employee, the non-union employee, the economy, international trade and productivity you have a situation that affects us all.

This series will cover both good and bad employees, problems with employees, hiring and firing, and how to develop, evaluate and manage them.

Employees—Qualities

Since I've begun this series on employees, several readers have asked, "What do you look for in hiring people?"

Hiring employees is the most difficult and yet represents one of the most important decisions a business owner or manager will ever make. There are some obvious things you always look for...like the person's qualifications, ability to do the job, level of education, professional training, experience, references, etc. But the things that make good employees are much more subtle and important.

In many cases owners/managers will hire employees on the basis of their qualifications or education, only to discover they have made one of the worst decisions possible. No one is exempt from making mistakes in hiring. We have all made good decisions and bad ones.

I remember hiring a young man who seemed well qualified but lacked experience. He needed to improve his communication skills, but this could be accomplished in time. He seemed to really want to be successful but as it turned out, he was not very industrious.

But the straw that broke the camel's back was the young man turned out to be a thief! Honesty is very difficult to measure in an interview. Of course, I had to fire him...one of my greatest disappointments.

There are 10 quality elements I look for in people. When I interview someone, I always check these things off in my mind. And after hiring, I always think about each employee to determine how well they measure up to a standard.

SAXTON'S 10 QUALITY ELEMENTS

Intelligence: The quality very often has nothing to do with the level of educational accomplishment, but rather it has to do with one's ability to problem solve. There are a lot of employees who can follow instructions but few who can think for themselves. Intelligence also is the ability to learn fast...to read and comprehend and the capacity to grow in abilities.

Honesty: This quality is very simple to understand. Either you are a thief or you're not.

Integrity: Supporting company values and operating by a set of values. (Individual integrity is covered in some of the later qualities). A company's integrity is supported by the integrity of its employees. For example, keeping company information confidential. As an individual you either have a code of values or you do not.

Character/Moral Excellence: You've heard the expression that "he has no character". That means he has no morals. He does not stand for anything. He drifts with the wind or straddles the fence.

Responsibility/Accountability: Willingness to stand up and be counted. Seeks to make good decisions.

Loyalty: Faithful in allegiance to one's company. Has pride in his/her company and supports the organization.

Dependability/Reliable: The employees you can count on. They are usually always on time and always fulfill their responsibilities.

Trustworthiness/Worthy of confidence: These employees demonstrate whether you can place confidence in them or not. This is usually done through testing them.

Ethical/Honorable: There can be honor among thieves if they all operate according to a code of ethics. I look for employees that believe in something. Employees that operate according to some code of ethics are always more comfortable to have around.

Creativity: An unusual mental ability. Creativity is not only applied to the 'arts' but rather the ability to apply experience, knowledge, objectives, etc., in solving a problem.

The way I used these quality elements is by assigning a value of between 0-10 for each element. If an employee does not get a score of at least 50 then you have a problem on your hands. If we use the previous example of the young man who turned out to be a "thief" he would have received the following values:

	Value Assigned	Highest Possible Score
Intelligence	7	10
Honesty	0	10
Integrity	4	10
Character	4	10
Responsibility	3	10
Loyalty	2	10
Dependability	2	10
Trustworthiness	3	10
Ethical	6	10
Creativity	34	100

Many of these of course can not be determined upon hiring and can only be accountly determined after prolonged observation.

It is possible for an employee to improve in these areas. Therefore this kind of examination should be an 'on-going' process.

I would encourage all owner/managers to perform this exercise for each employee. Sometimes the scores are very revealing. Those employees that you think you need and that you think are contributing to your organization may turn out to get the lowest scores. Those employees who quietly perform their jobs may turn out to be your most valuable.

It is also an interesting exercise, if you are an employee to grade yourself and those of your closest associates.

How well do you stack up against the others?

Flamingo frolic a success

The Flamingo Club, one of the city's more prolific social aggregation, is pleased with the success of their annual Fall Frolic held last Sunday in St. Peter Claver Center's upper ballroom.

As expected, guest showed up dressed in a variety of western attire, more than ready for the fun-filled evening ahead. There was excellent entertainment, dancing to Al Walton's Trio's music and the singing of Everett Green.

As always, the hostesses, club members, were charming and hospitable, having made it a point to show up in western attire, too.

A major surprise was the band playing "Happy Birthday" for member Ms. Julietta Clardy as she bowed and waved to the audience.

Also given special recognition were two recent International Harvester retirees, John Clardy and Green, wearing big smiles as they circulated through the crowd telling others how happy they were that their working days were over.

High heels are in for fall fashion

Little heels run joyously through fall, poised under suits, deliciously sizzly in satin.

But probably the real news is the all-out knockout of high heels. Sandalized or closed up, the look is beautiful, sensuous.

On any heel height, the

A GREAT shape to be in this season is the narrow-toe strap. Here, an elegant instep strap features a peaked throat, stands on a heel that's slim and understated at Bakers shoe stores.

Indiana Council of Deliberation 69th Annual Session

THE INDIANAPOLIS RECORDER PAGE 9
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1982

WEST LAFAYETTE—

Taking up the chant so many people have echoed recently, the leader of Scottish Rite Masons here Sunday said it's time blacks relied on some of their own capabilities.

"If we, as a proud black people," admonished Grady B. Hinkle, "will put out minds and strength to work, we will find that we are intellectually and physically equipped to recognize the problems of this nation, and we can provide leadership through which they can be resolved."

In clarifying what role his organization can play, Hinkle declared, "As Scottish Rite Masons, we must focus our attention on the issues that affect us, and when necessary, assume the role of leadership to address them intelligently and effectively. Let us pray to God who created all mankind to link us closer together in a common bond and heritage to help us learn the lesson of brotherhood and heed the golden rule, which takes the emphasis from self and places it upon others."

Hinkle, 33d, of Indianapolis wears the prestigious title "Sovereign Grand Inspector General, Deputy of the Orient of Indiana, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, Prince Hall Affiliated." His remarks were high-point of his yearly "allocation" delivered during the October 9-10 69th Annual Session of the Scottish Rite Masons at The Sheraton Inn here. Hundreds of delegates attended, mapping out strategies for coming months, attending workshops and listening to reports. Also very much in evidence were members of the women's auxiliary, known as Ladies of the Golden Circle.

"These ladies have done a beautiful job enhancing Scottish Rite Masonry," the SGIG said in the way of acknowledgement. "We have five valleys and a State Grand Assembly and it is their help and their intelligence that has helped make our consistory programming successful."

He also paid props to the host organization:

"I commend the illustrious sirs and sublime princes of Marion Consistory No. 60 for their cordial invitation to meet in their valley and most certainly for their successful efforts in making all comfortable."

A pleasant switch was having "a non-public bigwig address the Saturday night banquet hosted by Indiana State Grand Assembly, The Order of the Golden Circle. Selected by Grand Loyal Lady Ruler, Lillian Holt and the committee was Carol Susan Day, "Miss Indiana Black Expo 1982."

Miss Day, no slouch on public speaking, centered her remarks on "The War on Black Children."

"Children are neglected by parents, left to raise themselves, putting them in the war," she told her audience. "Children are misled. Parents show grow up with children and attend important affairs with them and guide them, show love and interest."

Paraphrasing renown writer Langston Hughes, she advised listeners to "keep your children at hand. War is lack of love and understanding." And to punctuate her address, she put on a dramatic performance, her interpretation of a grieving Atlanta mother, longing to see her missing child.

Banquet committee members represented each assembly with Malta Assembly 75 as host. Loyal Lady Ruler Jane Ware was chairperson.

Sovereign Grand Inspector General, Illustrious Joseph C. Williams, 33d, from Muncie, helped Masons brush up on traditional principles during his talk on "righteousness." He stood in for Sovereign Grand Commander, Honorable Russell S. Gideon, 33d, of the Holy Empire.

"Stop mean and dirty tricks, hateful words, lying and talking about people," Williams warned. "Come to the aid of your distressed brother...Be your humble self. What you have coming to you will come in its good time in the sight of God. As you progress in life and try to do right, always consider the meaning of 'Are my lips clean? Am I worthy?' Always strive to improve."

There were some big award recipients, as usual, during the annual session. Honored as Scottish Rite Mason of the Year was Sublime Prince Frederick E. Vaughn, 32nd, of Marion Consistory No. 60. Accolade for Commander-in-Chief of the Year was bestowed on Illustrious Commander George Hughes, 32nd, of Constantine Consistory 25 of Indianapolis, and distinguished for the biggest membership increase was St. John Consistory 54 of Evansville, with Jesse Scruggs as Commander-in-Chief.

This year's scholarship recipient was Regan L. Scruggs, son of Jesse Scruggs, Evansville. Young Scruggs is a junior at Purdue University.

Not to be slighted is the tactful way registration and the symposium was handled. With Illustrious Roger A. Jones, 33d, GIG, as moderator, the latter focused on "the Lodge of Perfection,

"The Rose Croix and the Consistory." Approximately 87 members joined in discussions.

Opening Sunday's activities was Marion Consistory No. 60. Illustrious Louis R. Morse, 33d, was Grand marshal, and Illustrious Joseph Isom, 33d, master-of-ceremonies.

CAROL SUSAN DAY, Miss Indiana Black Expo 1982, poses with SGIGs Illustrious Douglas C. Landers, 33d; Illustrious Joseph C. Williams, 33d, and Illustrious Grady B. Hinkle, 33d.

Ruler; Anna L. Simmons, Associate LLR; Vivian Jones, Guide; Norma Ganaway, treasurer, and Catherine Maxey, secretary.

SMILING with Deputy of Orient, Illustrious Grady B. Hinkle, 33d, is Jeannie Clark, wife of the photographer, and Judge Webster Brewer and wife, Pat.

ATTENDING BANQUET are Illustrious Sirs, all 33d degree, Willingham, Crice, Buckner and Moody, along with Henry Hall, 33d.

Black mayors will gather in Washington

WASHINGTON, DC-- In an effort to interface with top officials of the Reagan Administration and Corporate America, the National Conference of Black Mayors (NCBM), representing some 212 black mayors across the country, will convene its First Annual Mini-Convention in Washington, D.C. at the Washington Hilton Hotel, October 20-22, 1982.

"It will be a very important working session," said Johnny Ford, president of NCBM and mayor of Tuskegee, Ala. "This opportunity will give us a chance to develop a long-term working relationship with the federal government and Corporate America, the Congress and the diplomatic community."

According to Ford, the dollars can be found in the private sector.

"We, as city administrators, find ourselves retrenching to cope with economic hardships," Ford pointed out. "NCBM, in a concerted effort to alleviate these hardships, is bringing the nation's black mayors around the discussion table with representatives of major corporations."

Mayor Ford strongly believes that working in joint venture with the private sector, mayors will not only better the quality of life in their cities but contribute significantly to a healthy economy nationally.

Participants will participate in workshops and hear from several prominent speakers focusing on issues such as Enterprise Zones, State Block Grants, and the New Federalism.

A major highlight of the mini-convention will be the fundraising reception—a special "National Tribute to Lionel Hampton"—on Wednesday, October 20, at 7 p.m. Senator Howard Barker and Congressman Thomas O'Neil are co-chairs of the Tribute, while Whitman Mayo, known as "Grady" on the television series, Sanford and Son, will be master of ceremonies.

The National Conference of Black Mayors is a non-profit, non-partisan, service-oriented organization to promote the development of municipalities managed by black mayors. The Conference programs are designed to assist mayors in solving problems related to municipal management, identifying resources for supporting or improving existing services and creating and attracting new resources for impacting community growth.

Each candidate will be allowed a few minutes to offer his position on the issue and the public will be invited to ask questions, she said.

Fairbanks Hospital moves to new locale

Fairbanks Hospital, Inc. is moving from 16th and Northwestern to 8101 Clearvista Drive, Indianapolis, Indiana 46256 (82nd and Shadeland) on October 18. The entire move, (patients, staff, equipment, etc.) will take place beginning at 8:00 a.m. The move has been carefully planned to ensure little interruption in the patient's daily schedule.

The new 96-bed hospital replaces the 60-bed mid-city facility and will provide a larger treatment facility for adults—plus a separate unit for adolescents (ages 12-18) addicted to alcohol and other chemicals; a first in the state of Indiana.

Candidates to talk hunger at forum Sunday

Congressional candidates from the 2nd, 6th and 10th districts will discuss issues and legislative reform concerning world hunger at a public forum to be sponsored at 2 p.m. Sunday by Bread for the World of Greater Indianapolis in Northminster Presbyterian Church, 1660 E. Kessler Blvd.

Attending the forum will be 2nd District Congressman Phil Sharp, Congressman Dan Burton and his 6th District opponent George Grabianowski, and 10th District hopefuls Congressman Andrew Jacobs and Mike Carroll.

GOD IS LOVE

"MAKING THE RIGHT CHOICE"

BEFORE A CHOICE FOR ANYTHING IS MADE, THERE SHOULD BE A VALUE MADE ON THE END RESULTS, AND BEFORE
A DECISION OF THE END
RESULTS CAN BE MADE, ALL
FACTS SHOULD BE CONSIDERED.
NOTHING SHOULD BE DONE
WITHOUT FIRST CONSIDERING
THE REASON FOR IT BEING DONE, AND IF THERE IS NO
VALUE, IT SHOULD NOT BE DONE. THERE IS NO VALUE IN BEING DISOBEYED TO GOD'S COMMANDMENT OF LOVE.
THERE IS NO VALUE IN GOING TO CHURCH JUST TO SAY THAT YOU HAVE BEEN TO CHURCH.
THERE IS NO VALUE IN SAYING
ONE THING AND DOING
ANOTHER. THERE IS NO VALUE
IN REFUSING TO REPENT AND BE BAPTIZED IN THE NAME OF

Elder
David Howard

JESUS CHRIST FOR THE REMISSION OF YOUR SINS. THERE IS NO VALUE IN DOING AND SAYING THINGS TO DECEIVE YOUR FELLOWMAN. GOD MADE ALL PEOPLE, AND GAVE THEM THE FREEDOM TO CHOOSE WHATEVER THEY WANT. THERE ARE NO
HIDDEN SECRETS IN CHOOSING TO WORSHIP GOD IN SPIRIT AND
IN TRUTH. ALL WHO CHOOSE TO ACCEPT THE INVITATION THAT GOD GAVE THROUGH HIS SON, JESUS CHRIST TO MOVE IN WITH HIM IN HIS KINGDOM AND WILL INHERIT ALL THINGS. BUT, ALL WHO REFUSE TO ACCEPT GOD'S INVITATION BY REFUSING TO ACCEPT AND DEPEND ON JESUS CHRIST FOR EVERYTHING
THROUGH THE PREACHING AND TEACHING OF THE APOSTLES
WILL BE DAMNED FOREVER. SO MAKING THE RIGHT CHOICE
WHILE BREATH REMAINS IN YOUR BODY IS VERY IMPORTANT, BECAUSE WHEN DEATH COMES, IT SEALS WHATEVER IS OUT OF
YOUR BODY REMAINS OUT AND IF YOU HAVE NOT ALLOWED GOD'S SPIRIT (THE HOLY GHOST) TO COME IN, YOU ARE DOOMED. COME TO JESUS CHRIST HOUSE OF PRAYER, 1367
SOUTH BELMONT AVE., INDPLS., IND., AND MAKE THE RIGHT CHOICE BY ACCEPTING AND DEPENDING ON JESUS CHRIST FOR EVERYTHING. THIS IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY TIME TO MAKE YOUR CHOICE.

ELDER DAVID HOWARD, JR.,
PASTOR OF JESUS CHRIST HOUSE OF PRAYER

Slide Hampton

Slide Hampton, international-known trombonist, arranger, composer and a native of Indy is currently leading a jazz group in New York City called the World of Trombones, an ensemble of nine trombones backed by a four-man rhythm section.

"The Trombone," Slide said, "contributes more than most other instruments to the growth of a human being. A trombonist doesn't have the possibility of using the strength of his instrument to make his point. There is no high trombone shock, like a high trumpet shock. It has to use the beauty of its sound to make a point."

"Playing a trombone makes you realize that you're going to have to depend on other people," Hampton stated. Also he went on to relate, "If you're going to need help, you can't abuse other people. That's why there's a real sense of fellowship among trombonists."

He started playing trombone here in Indianapolis, unwillingly, at the age of 13 in his family's band, made up of his father, his mother, his eight brothers and sisters.

"I only did it because the band needed a trombonist and I was the youngest," explained Slide, who is 50 years old. "I don't think anybody would choose a trombone. It's a problem for a kid because his arms aren't long enough to push the slide all the way out. I made sure they didn't write anything for me below the fourth position."

When he was 15, inspired by the music of Charlie Parker and Dizzy Gillespie, he left his home here with $15 to go to New York. "I got as far as Cincinnati," he recalled. "I stayed there two weeks and then a friend who had a band in Houston asked me to join him. The group only worked one-night a week, but it got $1,000 for the one-night gig. That paid for room and food and I had the rest of the week off. So I stayed there for a year learning orchestration."

In 1955, he joined Buddy Johnson's band. A year later, he toured Europe with Lionel Hampton's band ("$150 a week, and you paid your own hotel bills") and the following year he went with Maynard Ferguson's band. There he gained his first major recognition as both soloist and composer.

In 1968, he settled in Europe for eight years, but came back to the United States in 1976, because, he said, "To make progress as a composer and improviser, to mature, you have to do it in New York City." "For learning and for developing yourself as a musician, there's no place better than New York," he said.

'Miss Speakeasy' contest

By Patrice Abdullah

As of this writing, Speakeasy has crowned four beautiful women as "Miss Speakeasy", Misses Cheryl Hollan, Wonder Steward, CeCe Bratton and Stephan Paicely.

These special ladies were selected from the many people who are now finding their way to one of the hottest clubs in the city.

Every Wednesday night Speakeasy presents "Miss Speakeasy", along with Curtis "Sly" Fox, who will provide you with the latest in top rhythm and blues. The fun thing about this contest is that all the honeys are eligible to win. All you have to do is get on the dance floor.

Speakeasy provides you with three tastefully decorated levels; full bar to entertain yourself with just about all the comforts of home—popular video games to amuse the challenge in you, or just to lay back, however you prefer.

My advice is to start early and stay late, and for you early jammers, the first one hundred ladies get a beautiful fresh cut rose to further

Teddy going home

Teddy Pendergrass

Superstar singer Teddy Pendergrass, injured last March when the Rolls Royce he was driving struck a guardrail and crashed into two nearby trees on a winding road in Philadelphia, is expected to be released from the hospital within the next two weeks.

According to Dr. William Straas Jr., president and medical director of Magee Memorial Hospital in Philadelphia, Pa., where Pendergrass has undergone a comprehensive rehabilitation program for the past three months—"the singer is in excellent shape."

"Medically, he is stable and in good spirits," said Straas. "From a medical point of view, I think he will be able to sing as soon as he gets into it." He also stated, "that the 32-year-old recording artist will never be able to walk again. 'Teddy is able to use his upper extremities,' the physician related. 'He is moving his arms and wrists and doing fine finger movement, but he can't move his fingers individually. He is able to move them together.' 'There is no function in the lower extremities,' he added."

Renovation is underway at the singer's 34-room mansion, according to reports, to enable Pendergrass to move around without a great deal of assistance. Workmen are said to be lowering light switches and installing other mechanical apparatus, including an elevator, for further convenience.

Dr. Staas reports that Teddy, "will be leaving the hospital, but will be coming back for medical follow-ups." Also he will receive medical treatment from a therapist who has already been assigned to work in his home." The singer's current album, "This One's For You," contains material recorded prior to the accident. Among Pendergrass fans, a favorite selection on the LP is "This Gift of Life."

Natalie Cole's mom to help her daughter

Natalie Cole

LOS ANGELES, CA—Recently in a Los Angeles Superior Court, Natalie Cole, superstar singer and a Grammy Award-winner herself signed a document with the Court asking that her mother Mrs. Maria Cole, former vocalist with several "named bands," be granted conservatorship powers over her career, health and estate.

Seemingly, Natalie is too ill to take care of herself. In the Court petition, her mother stated, her daughter is "unable to properly provide for her personal needs—including physical, health, clothing or shelter."

Also in Mrs. Maria Cole's petition she asked the Court to find the singer lacking in the ability in providing informed consent for medical treatment. Miss Cole is the daughter of the late "singing giant," Nat "King" Cole.

Lionel Hampton to receive nat'l tribute October 20

WASHINGTON, D.C.—

Lionel Hampton, an internationally-known jazz musician and bandleader, will be honored by the National Conference of Black Mayors (NCBM) at a reception on Wednesday, Oct. 20 at the Washington Hilton Hotel here. Lionel and his big band revue along with Christina Adams, known as "Christina," will entertain the guests.

He is entering his 45th year as a jazz performer and if there is any clue that the entertainer is about to ease up, it is not descerable to the eye or ear. Not even personal set-backs have diminished his enthusiasm to remain active playing the vibes and the drums in front of his big band.

Lionel came back from major surgery a little more than a year ago to perform with the same zest as always. He is traveling as much as ever, and touring the jazz capitals of Europe.

"Hamp," as he is affectionately called, looks back upon his early drum training with amusement. "I wanted to play the drums from the left-hand side but whenever she (teacher) caught me at it she would take her fist and bam! Right upside the jaw."

His interest in drums continued on through his high school years where a stint in a

Turntable Talk

By BOB WOMACK SR.

Stargard is riding high, if it's ever been true, in both the literal and figurative sense, that one has nine lives, it definitely is Stargard. But don't think of them as a group, think of Stargard as two young and seductively-attractive young women—Rochelle Runnels and Janice Williams.

And what they've done with "Nine Lives," their newest album for MCA Records, makes one believe in reincarnation, certainly in

The story of the blacks who beat slavery

If only about 20 percent of the African slaves reached the United States, the natural question is where did the other 80 percent go? According to Allen Counter and David Evans, two black scientists from Harvard University who have traveled deep into the South American jungle for almost a decade, the enslaved Africans were taken primarily to South America, Central America and the Caribbean. On the upcoming edition of Tony Brown's Journal, Modern-day explorers Al-

Black families are missing from T.V.

By Nikki Smith
The new television season is upon us once again. The networks and writers have tried to give something to everyone, except the black audience.

There is only one new black show added to the roster, The Odd Couple, starring Demond Wilson of (Sanford and Son) and Ron Glass (Barney Miller). This isn't an original script, it was a hit series several years ago, starring white actors, Tony Randall and Jack Klugman.

All other faces of color seen for the first time this fall in a new series will perform only minor roles.

This is October of 1982 and yet the old stereotypes still remain. We have always been a people to spring a laugh, keep house and take very good care of white children.

Nell Carter of Gimme a Break is the housekeeper for a white policeman and his three daughters. We, as black people, must portray a very negative family image, because there is not a single television show which is a true example of black life.

Gary Coleman and Todd Bridges, of different Strokes (their mother was a maid for their adoptive father before she died) are being raised in a white environment with a white father, white sister, and even a white housekeeper.

Where are the black Walton's and on Little House on the Prairie's? Blacks had reached the shores of America by then?

Robert Guillaume, star of Pop/Jazz

'Message' is that 'Rap' now king in rock clubs

NEW YORK CITY--
"The Message," is blasting out of radios and portable cassette players, on the subways and in streets all over the city, but especially in predominantly black neighborhoods. "The Message," is a seven-minute single by Grand Master Flash and The Furious Five found on the Sugar Hill label, a "rap record," in the parlance of the day.

That is, it spotlights spoken or chanted vocals--rapping--rather than singing. Rapping has taken the rock world by storm since its beginning in Harlem, the Bronx and Brooklyn in the late 1970's. Blondie, the Clash and other leading rock bands have recorded songs of their own that use the rapping style; Blondie's "Rapture," was a Top-Ten hit.

Black-owned labels such as Sugar Hill in Englewood, N.J., and Enjoy in New York City have scored hits with rap discs following the breakthrough success of the Sugar Hill Gang's "Rapper's Delight" and Kurtis Blow's "The Breaks."

Church World Today

By Virginia L. Kersey

God is all-wise

Knowledge is the amount of information one possesses. Wisdom is the use of that information. Biblical wisdom is knowledge digested and applied correctly to a given situation for the best results. "Blessed be the name of God forever and ever, for he alone has all wisdom" [Dan. 2:20]. God is all-wise; that is, He has an unlimited ability to apply correctly His all-emcompassing knowledge. God is good and thus can produce only good. Therefore, God's knowledge applied (wisdom) will always result in the best possible good.

Because God cannot sacrifice one attribute for another, each decision of the almighty God is as loving as it is wise and good. Because of God's knowledge, wisdom, and loving goodness, there can be no way to improve upon God's ways; they are perfect. "This God—his way is perfect" [Ps. 18:30]. God can never make a mistake. What security for those who lean not on their own understanding, but on the wisdom of God alone.

As a human being, you are more or less limited to an ant's-eye view of your life situations. In contrast to this, God knows exactly who He is allowing in your life. He sees the total picture of your circumstances. He has chosen for you the best direction to achieve His transforming and loving purposes in you and in the flow of history.

Consider how an all-wise God led the men and women of the Bible through a great variety of circumstances specifically chosen to teach them the liberating principles of faith in Him alone. While His personal work was taking place in their lives, God was accomplishing His overall purpose in history through the same men and women.

Just so, God is carefully leading you through life situations wisely designed to develop within you a new nature after the likeness of His own. God's method of developing this new nature is by teaching you how to respond in reliance on Him in daily life situations. Realizing that the situation you are facing has been designed by God in loving wisdom encourages your faith response. "I will instruct you and teach you the way you should go; I will counsel you with my eye upon you;...that you might be conformed to the image of Jesus Christ" [Ps. 32:8; Rom. 8:9].

You will never fully understand God's way or be able to offer concrete reasons for all His acts "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, says the Lord" [Isa. 55:8]. But you can know by a faith-decision on the basis of His all-wise character that His ways are perfect no matter how bad things look or how you "feel" about them. "And I will lead the blind in a way that they know not, in paths that they have not known I will guide them. I will turn the darkness before them into light, the rough places into level ground. These are the things I will do, and I will not forsake them" [Isa. 42:16].

Things of Interest
All roads will lead to Christ Church Apostolic on October 12-15, 1982, during their Sixth Annual Women's Day. The keynote speaker for these unforgettable services will be the inimitable Evangelist Iona Locke, of Los Angeles, California. Ms. Locke, noted for her eloquence in speech and delivery, is the vice president of the National Young People's Union of the Pentecostal Assemblies of the World. The event will be highlighted with a smorgasbord breakfast on Saturday morning at the church at 9:00 a.m. Tickets on sale for $3.50. For further information call: (317) 255-0979.

LUCILLE YOUNG
Rites for Lucille Young, 79, 2540 North Illinois, were October 11 at All Friends Baptist Church, with Jacobs Brothers Westside Chapel handling arrangements. She died October 6 at Wishard Memorial Hospital.

Survivors include two sisters, Sarah J. Gillum and Mildred Culppepper, and two brothers, Albert Sims and Richard Bertram.

Memphis' black mayor troubled by legalities

MEMPHIS, TN—

The nation's 15th largest city has its first black mayor, the honorable J.O. Patterson, Jr., an attorney and Church of God in Christ cleric. Reverend Patterson was sworn into office, when former mayor Wyeth Chandler resigned to accept an appointment to the circuit court bench by the governor in Tennessee.

Patterson, the City Council chairman, believes he can hold the interim mayor's job and retain the council chairmanship, despite an opinion to the contrary by the city attorney.

A lawsuit was filed by Memphis attorney Dan Norwood seeking a judicial order that the interim mayor's selection be made by city voters in the November 2 general election. Norwood, also, filed a lawsuit on the question of whether Patterson can hold both positions simultaneously. Norwood's suit asks that the interim mayor's slot be put on the ballot - even though the deadline for the normal 60-day qualifying period has passed.

The other suit was filed after Chandler took the oath of office and relinquished the mayor's post to Patterson, who as head of the council may serve in Chandler's place for a maximum of 20 days.

A judge ruled the position will be chosen by popular vote. The ruling to allow popular election of the office resulted from the lawsuit filed by Norwood who argued the voters should have the chance to choose the city's chief executive. The mayor will serve out former Chandler's term ending December 1983.

The Memphis City Council is expected to vote to fill the position of the interim mayor in an immediate session and while the Memphis populous does not vote in this selection, community and city fathers are taking a hard look at the advantages of maintaining the "minister-politician" as the city's chief executive officer.

Mayor Patterson is 47 years old and holds a B.A. degree in business administration from Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn., and a Doctor of Jurisprudence from DePaul University in Chicago, Ill. He is member of the Tennessee Bar Association, a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity and has had a law firm in the city of Memphis for a number of years.

Police auction to be Saturday

Bicycles, televisions, tires, lawn mowers and a microwave oven are among the unclaimed and unidentifiable property to be auctioned at 9:30 a.m. Saturday by the Indianapolis Police Department on the center tower basement loading dock of the City-County Building.

Proceeds will go to the Police Pension Fund. Other items up for auction will include power tools, wheel covers, pocket knives and a snow thrower.

Buyers are asked to provide transportation for moving items, and personal checks will be accepted only with proper identification.

"GUMBO"

BY DR. WILLIAM H. WIGGINS, JR.
Associate Professor
Afro-American Studies-Indiana University

Meeting a giant

I met one of our religious giants last week, Dr. Herbert Brewster of Memphis, Tennessee. After numerous letters and countless phone calls, I was finally able to arrange a personal interview with this world renowned preacher, religious drama playwright and gospel composer. The interview took place in his East Trigg Avenue Baptist Church office. The room's walls were festooned with awards and citations that government agencies and civic organizations have bestowed upon this distinguished humanitarian during his fifty-plus year Memphis ministry.

For more than half a century Dr. Brewster has conducted a vital gospel ministry in sermon, drama and song that has not been surpassed and rarely equalled by any other American clergyman. The Smithsonian Institution's Program in Black American Culture, which is directed by Dr. Bernice Johnson Reagon, will honor Dr. Brewster with a national conference on his works in a December meeting scheduled for Washington, D.C.

The following cursory look at his creative contributions to Afro-American religious culture clearly indicate that this recognition is well deserved and long overdue. He is not only a master preacher, but he has the even rarer gift of teaching other ministers how to preach. Graduates of his Bible Institute include such famous black preachers as the Reverend C.L. Franklin, the father of Aretha Franklin and recorder of numerous sermons. It was at the foot of Dr. Brewster that Reverend Franklin learned such classic sermons as "The Eagle Stirrth Her Nest," "The Prodigal Son," and "Dry Bones in the Valley."

Brewster is just as impressive. Before branching out on his own, Elvis Presley sang in Dr. Brewster's senior choir. Mahalia Jackson rose to fame with her recording of his composition, "Moving On Up A Little Higher." Brother Joe May thrilled gospel audiences with his recording of Dr. Brewster's "Leaning and Depending On Him." And the Ward Singers recorded more than twenty of his gospel songs. Two of the more easily remembered songs are Clara Ward leading the group in "How I Got Over" and Marion Williams' "Surely God Is Able."

Some of Dr. Brewster's gospel songs were written for the religious dramas that he has composed. "These Are They" and "How Far Am I From Canaan" were first heard in 1941 when they were sung during the production of his major gospel drama, From Auction Block to Glory, which was one of the highlights of the National Baptist Convention. So in a real sense, our own Mrs. Margerine Hatcher's In The Rapture and Al "The Bishop" Hobbs' Everybody Talkin' 'Bout owe much to the earlier play writing of Dr. Brewster.

For me, the most memorable part of our hour-plus interview was Dr. Brewster's discussion of the beginning of his ministry:

While growing up in Brownsville, Tennessee, some little white boys rode by me on their bicycles singing this little ditty: 'One, two, three, four, five, six, seven. Nigger on the woodpile can't count to eleven.' That thing got to me. And I became determined to show them that I could count to eleven.

Spurred on by their taunts, Dr. Brewster has cast a giant shadow over the American cultural landscape. Like I said: I met a giant last week: Dr. W. Herbert Brewster.

Facts you should know about Crown Hill

The true treasure of Crown Hill is the people who are buried there, the rich and the poor, the known and the unknown, the famous and the infamous who blended their lives with the history of Indianapolis.

Did you know?

- ... You can be buried in any developed area in the cemetery.
- ... Crown Hill has a pre-need discount for burial arrangements made in advance of need.
- ... If you select an additional grave or more at the time of someone's passing, you will insure your being buried next to them forever.
- ... In many cases, you can be entombed in a Garden Mausoleum for the same cost as ground burial.
- ... You can purchase a family plot for as many people as you wish and you can all be together forever.
- ... You can visit Crown Hill seven days a week, year-round, and decorate whenever you wish.
- ... Crown Hill's magnificent Community Mausoleum has space available and is open to all seven days a week.
- ... Crown Hill's prices vary, but are within everyone's reach.
- ... Crown Hill's view from Riley's Tomb is one of the most inspirational views our city has to offer. Try it and see.

Why would you want to be buried anywhere else?

Mating

Correcting the mistakes

"We saw something that we liked in each other and decided to get married."

The above statement is made by many couples that come to my office for marriage counseling. What is wrong with that statement? The statement suggests that one of the primary motivations for marriage is finding who can satisfy your needs. On the surface, this is a sensible goal, but it leads to problems.

The basic problem is that people are primarily concerned with fulfilling their own needs. Few people are aware of the fact that the basic thing that will determine if their marriage or friendship will be a success or failure will be their ability to satisfy the needs of their mate-not the reverse.

If you can keep your mate happy, your mate is likely to stay with you as long as you are able to do so. If you can get your mate to stay with you, the main problem is solved. You can, then, devote your efforts to modifying your own desires so that you may obtain fulfillment.

Everyone has needs and desires that cry out for satisfaction. Your needs are more important, to you, than your mate's needs. The trouble is that your mate's needs are more important, to him or her, than are yours.

What are some of these needs? Your mate probably needs: (1) To feel wanted and accepted. Your mate needs your praise, support and approval. You must congratulate your partner for the smallest accomplishment, encourage him or her to continue to persevere in spite of the odds, refrain from nagging criticism. (2) Constant love and affection. Your mate wants and needs to be caressed, kissed, and told how much love and affection you have. This must be an on-going, constant activity. Never assume that you have done enough in this area. (3) Constant ego boosting. Tell your partner that you selected him or her instead of the competition because of the many superior qualities that are present: physical attractiveness, intelligence, sexual competence and ability to make you happy. Even if you have to stretch the truth you will benefit in the long run. (4) To know that you still appeal to members of the opposite sex.

Your mate has a psychological need to know (or think) that you are worth having and the way to fulfill this need is to indicate in a non-boasting, indirect way that someone else finds you desirable. But, of course, they do not compare with your mate. Predictability and routine are perhaps the worse characteristics that you can acquire. To want you, your partner must feel that you are worth having, that you are better than all the others, that you can provide satisfaction and excitement that no one else can, whether this is true is not important, the important thing is whether your mate thinks it is true. This is where your knowledge of psychology comes into play. (5) Excitement and surprise in the relationship. Don't let the relationship get stale. Regularly surprise your partner with gifts, entertainment and newness. Not everyone enjoys looking at television 7 nights a week.

The mate who is happy and fulfilled will be more likely to fulfill your needs and make you happy. The mate who is unhappy will probably seek personal satisfaction with someone else

The shrinking black middle class

It seems only yesterday that the media was selling the myth of the black middle class, which redefined in such a way as to include the majority of all black people.

Without denying the growth of that class in the sixties and seventies, and without questioning its importance, an observer would still have to conclude that it represented not some emerging new majority but rather an oasis in a desert of poverty.

One reason why we don't hear that much about the growing black middle class these days may be because it is no longer growing. While the white middle class too, faces difficulties in an age of recessions, the erosion in its living standards is far less serious.

That is not meant to be callous or to reflect indifference. Rather it is to simply indicate the truth of a situation in which the white middle class has the resources to sustain even a prolonged period of hard times while the black middle class is composed of families whose middle class income have only recently been attained. They have had little chance to build an earnings and savings cushion against hard times.

And let us not forget that the current depression impacts blacks much more than whites, if only because the last-hired, first-fired tradition means the loss of newly won jobs for blacks. The federal government layoff patterns fully reflect this. Because government agencies were often willing to hire blacks when many private sector businesses were not, disproportionate numbers of blacks worked for the government. In the past ten years some of them began to achieve the administrative and supervisory positions we think of as being "middle class."

But the federal program cuts have had their greatest impact on those minority administrative employees. They have lost their jobs at twice the rate of non-minority administrative workers in the current round of federal layoffs.

Overall, in all positions-administrative and otherwise-for every two non-minorities that lost their jobs through the federal staff reductions, there were three minorities laid off.

A similar pattern holds for state and local governments that are also tightening their belts. And it holds too, for the private sector jobs where minorities and women are relative newcomers.

Other signs of pressure on the black middle class are found in the sharply higher rates of business failures, personal bankruptcies, and home mortgage foreclosures.

While there are no definitive breakdowns by race on such key indicators, it is reasonable to assume that the most vulnerable part of the middle class-including much of the black middle class-are disproportionately affected by these phenomena.

The tragedy of the black middle class lies in its betrayal by a system that barred the way to middle class income and status for so long and then, shortly after lifting those barriers, dealt such a crushing blow to people who played by the rules of the game and deserve better.

The terrible message that sends to the low income majority is that even earning middle class status leaves black people vulnerable in our society.

The expansion of a confident, secure middle class is a necessity if black people as a whole are to make significant progress, and that is why the current crisis afflicting that relatively small group is of such immense importance to all black people and to the nation.

For most Americans, "making it" means having the attributes of middle class status-a home, a car, a steady income. The Great Society programs of the 1960s, by opening opportunities for work and education, helped bring that dream closer to reality for millions of whites and blacks. The Mean Society cutbacks of the 1980s threaten to plunge them back into hardship and disillusionment with a system that filed them.

Activist raps black SAT score statistics

Editor's Note: The Recorder last week carried an article on low Scholastic Aptitude Test scores of blacks in statistics released recently by the College Board. Following is a commentary on the scores by Dr. Charles Cobb, executive director of the United Church of Christ Commission for Racial Justice.

Recently, the College Board announced blacks score an average of 100 points lower on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), the standardized test for screening college applicants. The College Board is a non-profit organization of more than 2,000 schools and colleges.

These figures have not been made public in previous years in order to prevent a misconception regarding the ability of minority students. Psychological data shows teachers who have been given prior expectations of student performance levels usually teach at those levels.

Apparently, the College Board's reasoning for previously withholding this information was to prevent teacher bias.

They now have decided to release this information according to College Board President George Hanford, in order to "illuminate the

His eulogy

I did not know him. And yet I have met him in so many places so many times. I never saw him in person in my life. Not even in death, his death, your death, my death. "Though he is dead," said our Lord, so are we dead, says I. And does it really matter how he died? This young black beautiful fourteen years young boy. Life cut off, suddenly, I hope. Violently, I am ashamed to say, by a person or persons thus far unknown.

Delvond Baker, fourteen years young, whose body, like Mrs. Craster's "Centipede," was found "lying in a ditch," a long way's from home. The black community is upset. "If it isn't one thing," as the old saying goes, "it's another." Young men and not so young men are always shooting and knifing and killing one another. Or being killed by the police, or an estranged girlfriend, or somebody. Or our little daughters and infant babies are being raped and abused by so many of us, black men, black women. So the death of young Baker is just another tragedy, another murder of someone who did recently walk among us.

But what is there to say about how he died? According to the sensational newspaper account, he was labeled a "young hustler."

"Police are attempting to pull clues from Baker's night of hustling October 2 that will lead them to the murderer who strangled the eighth grader and dumped his body in a Southeastern Hamilton County ditch. Part of the evening was spent with a Florida man, who was in Indianapolis training to be a truck driver for a moving firm. The man (white) Duncan V. Patterson 47, (I've met many of them, too) admitted that he gave the youth $20 for a sex act that occurred in a Southside motel. Patterson was cleared as a suspect in the child's murder."

Isn't it sordid? Aren't your sensibilities shocked? After the fantasies of such a relationship between a white male, 47 years old, and my black boy, 14 years old, has been duly spent, and the vicarious thrill of some, the anger and abhorrence of others, and the indifference of many has subsided, as the police search for the sick one who performed such a dastardly act, and the media continue to sell their story and bylines of such juicy material, when we have begun to be really sorry for Baker, and concerned about those who shall surely follow after him, "even unto death," who shall we blame? First of all, I blame myself.

For my helplessness, my powerlessness to not to have had the opportunity to help him stay away from the persons and places that started him on his last ride.

I have tried to be the father, the brother, the chaplain, the pastor of so many fatherless boys. Each obvious failure diminishes me. And I feel the agony of defeat I think our Lord felt as He stood on the outskirts of Jerusalem, mourning for the inhabitants therein.

Who is to blame? Every black male or every any color male, who is guilty of siring an offspring as the result of a cheap sexual encounter, and walk irresponsibly off as if the affair is ended.

Who is to blame? The young black female, or any color female, who continues to give herself for love or money or acceptance to the wolves who prey upon them, seeking to satisfy a demented ego or a momentary thrill.

Who is to blame? A society that glorifies sex and violence, and advertises it on TV, and textbooks, and commercial ads, and in every facet of our lives now by some contrived method to make it succeed.

Who is to blame? The law of this land that permits young males and professional ladies of the day and night to loiter in the market place, waiting for the sickies to come and purchase their wares.

Who is to blame? Our institutions, including the church, who in most cases, conduct witch hunts and meaningless debates, oratories and dissertations over sexual preferences, rather than dealing with the fact that the pitfalls of sexual license is an open part of our culture. It's here to stay and to be dealt with, not in bigotry and accusatory self-righteousness, but intelligently, sensitively, honestly, creatively, prayerfully.

Delvond Baker, there is such a thing as reconciliation. In your last moments of this corruptible life, the great Reconciler Him-self, because of your youth, your innocence, your neglect by us, He received you into His-self, it seems to me.

Thanks be to God.

GETTING ALONG

By

Dr. Alvin F. Poussaint and Dr. James P. Comer

Dear Doctors: I have waited tables in restaurants for several years and I have noted a phenomenon that I hope you can explain. Why don't blacks tip well? I can honestly say that, as a group, blacks - both men and women - either do not tip at all, or will simply leave some change on the table (though, of course, there are exceptions).

At first, I thought it was because I am white, but black waiters and waitresses I have talked with have the same problem. It is not because my service is poor, because many times I will overcompensate when serving blacks to see if it affects my tip - but to no avail. Do you think it is social, economic or cultural?—J.G., Houston, Texas.

Dear J.G.: We have received a number of letters in the past from waiters and waitresses of both races alleging that black people, in general, are poor tippers or don't tip at all. We have been unable to document such observations. Our guess is, if there is any validity to your observations, it is related to the economic circumstances of the majority of black people.

In our own observations among black friends and associates, we find that they tip as much in restaurants as any other group. A few even, on occasion, "over-tip" or are quite generous. However, we are middle-class and most of our friends fall into the same category. That, naturally, does not mean that some may not be stingy, but that fact cannot be generalized to the entire group.

Middle-class blacks do have their insecurities, but these insecurities are more likely to make them overly concerned about proper style while dining out. In other words, blacks who are anxious to make a good impression will tip well if they can afford it.

To be able to afford to tip well is the important point to consider. Poor blacks (or poor whites, for that matter) may find it more difficult to part with a dollar or two for a tip because they have to pinch pennies. Because of inflation, restaurant checks have skyrocketed. Ten to 15 percent of the bill as a tip can be a substantial amount - and it hurts the pocketbook.

We wonder, therefore, if there is any difference in tipping practices if whites and blacks of the same class background are compared. The only difference we suspect that might be of some significance is that blacks overall may not have as much experience dining out as whites. Remember, restaurants were segregated throughout the South and parts of the North until relatively recently. Thus, it may be possible that black newcomers to dining out may merely be uninformed about tipping rules.

Dear Doctors: I am a black, well-educated, well-to-do European, 41 years of age. I have been in this country 25 years. I am male and happen to be homosexual. However, only my closest friends are aware of the fact that I am homosexual.

My problem is as follows: Since I have been in this country, I have not been able to establish a single relationship or rapport with a black male. Why is it that black male Americans (especially the professional type) prefer white male homosexuals, even if they are of a much lower social status? On the other hand, upper-class white homosexuals tend to accept me for what I am, rather than as a black European. Lower-class whites and upper-class blacks view me with suspicion and enmity. I cannot change my accent and I would never attempt U.S. slang or incorrect usage of the English language.

What has happened to the black male here in the U.S.—both homosexual and heterosexual?—A black European, Houston, Texas.

Dear Reader: Black male homosexuals we have consulted disagree with your impression that black male gays prefer white partners. They claim that in most big cities, gays of both races will interact freely with each other. A few, however, report that they have encountered white homosexuals who are bigoted toward blacks. Some also report that they are not welcome in some white gay bars.

We wonder, therefore, if your observation is correct and how large your sampling has been. Your experience may be related to other issues.

Perhaps American black male homosexuals feel more comfortable with an American white male than they would with a European. In other words, black males may feel a cultural barrier with you because of your style and accent. Indeed, they may even feel that you are rejecting them, not vice versa.

We suggest that you talk more openly to the black male homosexuals you know and find out what their opinion is on the matter.

Send your questions to Drs. Poussaint and Comer in care of this newspaper. The volume of mail received prohibits personal replies, but questions and comments of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Here's a thought for you

By Rev. Don Carpenter

Greetings as we explore our third article and the controversial thinking which should affect our black community. The controversial implications are not radical, rather those thoughts which bring about the "pro and con" side of the issue. Thinking is therapeutic, a factor often overlooked within our black experience.

In the previous articles, the youth have been discussed and the absence of input from the black community as a whole, from the religious, social or civic circles. One of our leading professional photographers, Leonard Perkins of "Photography by Perkins," 4162 N. College Avenue, has developed a unique concept for the youth of this city. The program is known as "Perkins and People."

Perkins, as the name implies, is not a person, but an idea, a concept, a dream that is reflected through people. People, also part of the name, are high school students who share the dream, live the concept and promote the idea. The idea is extended to sophomores, juniors and seniors of each high school, with the opportunity to share an atmosphere of positive togetherness while getting involved in meaningful mind developing activities.

The concept joins together our Indy students in developing a higher degree of self worth, pride, dignity and a sense of accomplishment through working together with a positive mental attitude. And the dream endeavors to make our young people aware of the world and its opportunities, then strive to make the world aware of our young people and their potential.

Perkins People have a Parents Advisory Board which allows parents a medium for involvement with their children and other families, and for those without children eligible to join Perkins and People, there is The Generation Connection (TGC), and these share as a support group for the organization.

For interested youth and adults, there is a hotline, 923-1121. This program, Perkins and People, like the approach of the Guardians as detailed in the October 9 edition of this paper, offers a bright future for the youth of Indy. The question is: "How many blacks of the city will become supportive of this program, not just from the financial, but from a supportive approach?"

My focus of a controversial thought pattern arises with a recent murder in the city of a young man, described as active in his church, his school and a person of above average scholastic rating. The media's assumption or analogy of the "why and how" the murder happened has already been locked into many minds in the greater Indy community. The religious community will use "sin" as its leverage; the sociologist will attribute the murder to a weakened family structure, and those who rely upon the printed columns of a journalist will consider the incident as that of a loose moral oriented person.

But, before you formulate any opinion, some questions have to be answered: "What really lies behind the Atlanta murders of black youth? How many were missing prior to the news media's sudden interest? What has the arrest of Wayne B. Williams, convicted for killing two or three persons done for youth still missing?"

One unique thing in Indy's case and those of Atlanta, research has shown all the youth of Atlanta were scholarly, street-wise and less than two percent school delinquents. Most were from one-parent families. The case in this city has the same characteristics to a degree. It is also rather strange that the person admitting to having been with the young person here is also from a geographical area closely akin to Atlanta. To understand this, you would have to have the exposure of some research centered on the Atlanta killings. Even more strangely, the penal institutions have persons serving terms for statutory rape—blacks that is—and here a person, non-black, can admit having a sexual affair with one under age and lesser charges are filed.

Let's think. All that crap about homosexual activity, street hustling and why the youngster was out at that time of night is irrelevant to some facts which need addressing. Have we, through the struggles for civil and human rights, reverted back to the days when a person can freely abuse blacks to have a sexual appetite satisfied? With the young man dead, who really knows sex was a factor? Remember, most of the youth killed in Atlanta were accused of being sexual hustlers? Strangely, the dead cannot testify on their behalf.

My point is this. Don't let youth programming die in this city as the program of the Guardians did, accidentally on purpose by the powers that be. Just as Atlanta is more than the arrested Williams, Indy's recent murder is more than street hustling or homosexual activity. But sleep on you "Rumpies" on Naptown. Some politician will come along and tell you what to think about this column and other things which affect our black experience, and they have never been black a day in their lives.

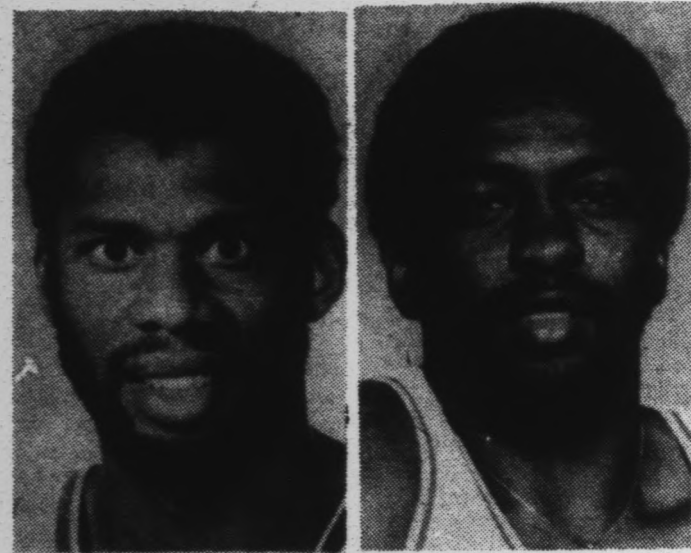

Theory of and practical experience in being is the difference in what we are and should think. Controversial? Give it a thought.

HERE AGAINST PACERS: "The Big Fellow," as he's often called, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (left), and Moses Malone, recently traded from the Houston Rockets to the Philadelphia 76ers, will give the Indiana Pacers more than formidable opposition during exhibition season appearances in the next few days. Jabbar will lead the defending NBA champions into Market Square Arena Thursday for a 7:30 p.m. tipoff. Malone will be making his first trip to Indianapolis next Friday when the Pacers host the Sixers and their crowd-pleasing super-star, Julius (Dr. J.) Erving. Tickets are priced at $8 for unreserved seats below the sixth floor hallway, and $5 above (half price for youngsters under 13). Advance tickets can be purchased at MSA's box office, Ross & Babcock, or any L.S. Ayres store. The two games will be the only pre-season appearances at Market Square by the Pacers, although the Blue & Gold will face the Detroit Pistons Monday in Bloomington's Assembly Hall. Tickets for that contest ($5 for adults and $3 for youngsters under 13) are available at any Indianapolis Athletic Department store.

Young must practice

By KENNY CORNELL

Last time I cited the fact that the average youngster does not know how to execute fundamentals in baseball, basketball or football.

In basketball, to execute the basic fundamentals one must be able to dribble with either hand and that is done by bending your back and controlling the basketball with the fingers and center of the hand.

Passing is another important skill. The ability to pass comes with rhythm as basketball and instinctive skills develop.

Next is shooting. One must practice endlessly to develop a good outside shot. He should shoot anywhere from 50 to 100 shots a day to practice.

Rebounding is next. He must have the ability to block out and also do enough running to develop spring in legs for jumping.

In baseball, one skill often taken for granted is bunting. Bunting is performed by swinging all the way around while facing the pitcher and letting the ball hit the bat.

Playing in the field requires youngsters to study the game and be aware of the number of men out and where they might score from, and where to throw the ball.

Then, there's the ability to judge the ball. The best way to develop catching and fielding skills is through constant practice, plus, practice the things you don't do well.

Here's a review of the proper way to throw a rolling block on defense: Hit your man below the knees and hit him like you mean it. The proper way to block in line play is to take both arms, pull them tightly to you, make two fists and hit him straight on.

(Editors note: In addition to Kenny Cornell's periodic features and tips for youngsters, he makes a prediction for Thursday's scheduled 10-round bout between Marvin Johnson and Alvin Manson.)

"There will be a lot of trauma when the two fighters get it on here in Nap. I pick Marvin to win because of his superior experience. This is a chance for him to stop and think on the mistakes he's made in the past. The fight should last no more than eight rounds. Johnson your winner by TKO.

Last weekend's play turned sour for No. 1 teams in Indiana. And it was just as bad for a handful of other unbeaten.

Class AAA leader North Central, Class AA front-runner Franklin Central and five other teams suffered their first losses of the season last Friday.

Warren Central's Rich Shepler completed 12 passes for 311 yards and three touchdowns and ran for another score as the unranked Warriors tripped their county foes, North Central 41-35.

The Warriors (5-2) had several heroes in breaking the Panthers' 15-game regular season winning streak. Jim Disman had six pass receptions for 203 yards and two touchdowns. He also caught a two-point conversion.

And Steve Holstein returned a kickoff 91 yards to break a 14-all tie, putting the Warriors ahead for good.

North Central quarterback Gary Thurman had a 72-yard touchdown run and finished with 222 yards on the ground and 148 in the air. Thurman completed eight passes, with DeWitt Akers catching two for touchdowns. Akers also caught another touchdown pass and finished with seven catches for 181 yards. Meanwhile, previously second-ranked Lafayette Jeff made a move to replace the Panthers in the weekly polling for top Class AAA honors in trouncing Muncie Central 42-14. North Central dropped to No. 7.

In a battle of triple-A powers, No. 20 Roncalli squeaked past No. 6 Chatard 10-3. The Trojans lost when Gary Cannon was knocked out of bounds about a yard short of a touchdown as time expired. Roncalli, (6-1), scored the game's only touchdown on a six-yard scamper by Kenny Gillum with 42 seconds to play. Unranked Pike defeated two-time defending state champ Franklin Central 19-6 as senior tailback Marcus Johnson raced to a pair of 19-yard touchdowns against the state's top ranked double-A team.

Class AAA Martinsville extended the state's longest regular season winning streak to 27, blanking Columbus North 28-0.

In other key Class AAA matchups, once-beaten Penn edged previously undefeated Mishawaka 7-0. Also, two-time defending Class AAA champion Carmel got by Lawrence Central 18-16.

Minor World Series?

The Indianapolis Indians may have a chance to defend their American Association championship next season, via minor world series style.

The possibility arose following last week's meeting between the top men in the American Association and International League, proposing a minor league World Series next September in Louisville's Cardinal Stadium.

By far, the Cardinals produced the best attendance this season in all of minor-league ball. During the last week of the season, more than 50,000 fans passed through the admission gates.

Now the presidents of the International League and American Association plan to take their idea to the president of the Pacific Coast, Bill Cutler. If he approves, the only remaining obstacle would be the leagues' getting the approval of the teams' parent clubs in the majors.

If Cutler doesn't approve, the American Association and International League would probably revive the Junior World Series, which has not been played since 1975. That best-of-seven series would match the champions of the Class Triple-A American Association and International League.

Here's how the proposed Triple-A World Series would work:

The champions of the three top minor leagues—the American Association, International League and Pacific Coast League—would meet for three or four days in September to face each other in round-robin competition. The series would consist of three two-night double-head-ers, with the title going to the team with the best won-lost record. If two teams ended up tied, they'd play for the championship on the fourth day.

Would it be a representative championship? What about teams that won their musical terms. Stargard has two major albums on MCA and a smash hit single "Which Way Is Up?" from the Richard Pryor film and then went over to Warner Bros. for two equally successful albums.

But now they're back with MCA and with an album that displays the tremendous versatility that Williams and Runnels have gained over the past few years. With Runnels producing "Nine Lives," and the lovely two-some involved in the writing of six of the nine tracks, there's a strength and maturity to the music which is happily welcomed to popular music today.

"We've moved away from the almost strictly-funk of our first albums," Williams begins. "There's a lot less of the funk undertone on 'Nine Lives,' and much more of a rock sound which we've always wanted to sing. Now we're in the position to do what we want, especially with Rochelle producing."

Message

Grant Master Flash have recently become a leading attraction n such downtown rock clubs as the Roxy, Danceteria and the Kitchen, often in conjunction with the spectacularly acrobatic brand of dancing called--"break-ing."

Until "The Message," the message of the overwhelming majority of rap records was self-assertion or just plain bragging, a kind of updated equivalent of 1950's bragging blues like Bo Diddley's "I'm A Man," or Muddy Water's "Hoochie Coochie Man." It was a message that went hand in hand with the spectacular command the disc-jockeys have over their machines and the jousts of the breakers with the laws of gravity.

Early rappers such as D.J. Hollywood, who kept patrons of Harlem's Apollo Theater entertained between acts around 1976-77, were actually disc-jockeys who began chatting to the crowd through a microphone while they spun records.

This in itself was nothing new, of course. Radio disc-jockeys often talk over the records they are playing, and some of the more flamboyant disc-jockeys have since the 1950's boasted and bragged and relegated their records to any accompanying role. In the 1960's and early 1970's on the island of Jamaica, rapping disc-jockeys such as Big Youth became popular recording artist. (B.W.).

bills of importance to the community in major subject areas. "Now is the time for us to make our presence felt," Summers comments. "If we go to the polls in significant numbers, we can have a definite impact on the political process."

Representative John Day from 51, wrapping up his fourth consecutive term, spent the summer as part of a study committee reviewing the drastic cut in student aid last year.

"At the state level," he says, "assistance given to college students in the 80-81 school year amounted to $22,900,000 with 31,400 students participating in the program. For fiscal year 81-82 the amount was $17,300,000 with 31,650 students and for this current year the figure is $20,500,000 divided among 32,900 students."

Day says he intends to introduce in the State Assembly a local version of the federal "work-study" program, which allows students to work part-time for the college or university and/or for a non-profit social service agency with the federal government paying 80 percent of the cost and the college or university the other 20 percent.

The representative says his version would seek to have the state pay 50 percent and the employees 50 percent.

"Let me assure you that I have not neglected my duties here in the district and have done some campaigning and also registered 109 voters," he added.

'Black theater needs more exposure'

By LYNN FORD
Staff Writer

Black theater in Indianapolis has been on a roll in recent months, cashing in on its years of artistic growth, pride and determination.

Local actors and actresses have earned both critical acclaim and important drama awards for their performances in well-known plays that, in some cases, smashed attendance records.

"But black theater here deserves more," says Bernie Hall, who will appear with Monica Allen in two Sunday performances of the one-act "Herbert III" in The Office Lounge, 2816 East 38th.

"It's true that the local black theater community has expanded the size of its audience recently, but it still doesn't get media exposure it deserves.

"The people of Indianapolis are sold on good cultural entertainment, and I think black theater should be recognized more by the media for its contribution."

Pointing to the Indianapolis Civic Theater box office record set last year by the Actors' Ink production of Ntozake Shange's "for colored girls....," Hall said, "Black theater has proven it has the drawing power of any other stage outfit in town and I think it's time people took notice."

Theatergoers, however, will probably take notice of Ted Shine's "Herbert III," because the comedy takes place in a bed. Hall and Miss Allen are Herbert and Margaree, a couple looking for a happy sexual medium.

"She is a religious woman who is as cold as ice and the husband is looking for a way to break down the barrier," Hall said.

"We chose a one-act because many times I find that audiences get bored with sitting through a four or five-act. "Herbert III" is short, sweet and to the point," he said.

The play's 4 p.m. performance is sold out but it will be repeated at 6 p.m.

A 1968 graduate of Shortridge High School, Hall has literally "grown up" in black theater. He attended Michigan State University in 1973 after "saving all my money through the years" and was named president of the university's Black Arts Co. stage troupe. He also sang with Michigan's Civic Opera.

Hall has done a number of plays here, including "Raisin in the Sun" and "The Petrified Forest" at the Civic, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at a Shakespeare Festival and "No Exit," "The First Breeze of Summer" and "The Me Nobody Knows" for Soul People Repertory Company.

Hall shared the stage during the latter production with Miss Allen, who also specializes in set designs. She was voted 1980 "Miss Brickhouse" during a pageant sponsored by WTLN-FM and will participate in a similar contest to be put on Monday by the station.

Sunday's "Herbert III" performances will be filmed by the actress' husband, plans of his own for the city's black theater audience.

"I wouldn't mind playing on Broadway one day, but I really would like to help develop the black theater circuit here. I'm certain people would like to see good entertainment like the old days at the Indiana Roof. I even think it would be nice to bring a Broadway play here and feature regional performers in it. There are about 250 one-acts I'd like to do like, 'The Death of Bessie Smith.' I don't think anyone has seen that one here.

"If I have one thing I'd like to do in life, it is to bring regular black theater entertainment back to the city. That would be my contribution."

Side effects of 200 drugs listed in book

Prescription drugs are hailed by millions as the "Great American Cure-All."

There are drugs to fight infection, relieve pain, help one sleep or develop regular bathroom habits. And diet or weight gain remedies come a dime a dozen.

But while millions of Americans place undying faith and loyalty in the number of prescription drugs available today, the side effects one may suffer by using the remedies are somewhat startling.

A new book, "Prescription Drug Effects and Side Effects," lists the intended purposes and adverse reactions of more than 200 drugs.

Among the drugs that cause side effects like faintness, blurred vision, nausea, dry mouth, depression, diarrhea and decreased sweating are:

Benadryl
Darvon
Inderal

Neosporin
Penicillin
Percodan
Phenobarbital
Valium

The book also lists several generic drugs one may choose over name brands to save money.

Florence Ballard's mother dead at 72

DETROIT—

Services were Thursday for Lurlee Ballard, mother of the late Florence Ballard of Motown Records' original Supremes singing group.

Mrs. Ballard, 72, who had 14 children, 52 grandchildren and "so many great-grandchildren we somehow lost count of them all," died last Friday in Mercy Hospital here after a short illness.

Friends of Mrs. Ballard said she stood by Florence with endless encouragement during her daughter's days as a singer with Diana Ross and Mary Wilson on record hits like "Where Did Our Love Go."

Reportedly overweight and on welfare, Florence died six years ago from an accidental mixture of diet pills and alcohol.

LIBRA

Positive energy is here for you early birds. For the sun is in Libra; you can work positive in your life at this time. The sun always brings energy to whatever sign it passes through. Work on being positive in whatever you are dealing with. Vocations are: Judges, models, artists, designers, beauticians, attorneys and entertainers. Colors are: Crimson, blue pastels, pastel tints and turquoise. Best locations are places of social activities. Best friends are in the following signs: Aquarians, Gemini, Leo and Sagittarius. Opposites are Aries. Venus is your ruler, which desires harmony. The scales are your symbol. You seek balances with yourself as well as God.

SCORPIO

Bring out your emotions to loved ones. Long and short trips are advised. Seeking a higher way of dealing with the mind can work for you this week. Understanding why you are here is your purpose. Be true to yourself, understand and do what must be done. Sex is not all that matters to the soul and the mind. In October, many of you will begin to go through a test of life. Feeling and seeing the truth in yourself and surroundings are the strongest of the test. Be for real in what you do and think! God is here, just call out and be for real.

SAGITTARIUS

You must find an outlet for your energy this month (October). If you just sit around, you could activate the negative within. If you have anything upsetting you, bring it out into the open, in a positive way. Be careful with sharp instruments and moving too fast. You must think before you react with everything. If arguments pop up, keep your cool...and find out why it is happening. No one is perfect, that is one of the reasons why we are here in the first place.

CAPRICORN

Many of you have had problems in marriage and close partnerships. You should be able to take a deep look back over your life and see where you went wrong, without blaming others. We all make our own mistakes in life, which is where free will comes in. Make sure that you have learned that you cannot rule the world with your physical. If your flesh makes your mind weak, then you are moving backwards in life. Money cannot buy the soul, only the flesh. Come down to earth and meet your true self. God knows you most.

AQUARIUS

Being fixed is blocking your growth in life. You are put here to teach true love to mankind in a humanitarian way. Do not waste time dealing with the negative. We all need your love. Talk is cheap; back up what you feel with love and understanding. We are waiting...Will the real you, please stand up? Both mentally and physically. You cannot block your love to give to others without suffering yourself. One human is not the puppet in the world of another. Watch your drug and alcohol intake. Show us your true self. God and others await you.

PISCES

Drugs and alcohol many of you are weak for. Which puts the flesh through all kinds of unnecessary tests. The real world is right in sight! You are only as weak as you want to be. Stand up with your mind and open the doors that you, yourself closed. Unite with your families and come out from behind the fantasy of the mind and flesh. Life is very real and so are you! Wake up my friend, wake up! Times are too hard to be unreal...The soul has no color, no one has ever seen a soul leave a body: just God and God is an understanding God. Be FOR-REAL...

ARIES

If asked to play a special role, be yourself. Be willing to compromise on small things in order to gain advantages in matters that you feel strong about. Call a friend. Do not be boldly aggressive. Consider all angles. Take advantage of a chance to receive instructions in a favorite hobby. Write some business letters. Discuss money matters with close relatives who encourage you. Your ruler is Mars. It is regenerating you in your weak areas. Work on unfinished projects and keep your behavior under control. Stress your ideas to God.

TAURUS

Be persistent if you are searching for old information. If you find that your church and community have chores for you; do not bark, just get the job done! Make a resolution to share your interests in a more positive way. Do not speak foolishly about something that you do not know to be true. While shopping, it is advised to remain away from luxury purchases. An old flame may try to get in touch with you. Trust God.

GEMINI

Avoid credit buying. It could be a trap to enslave you. Keep up at work, but don't let it make you tense and nervous. This is one of your weeks to do your own driving. When your faith is strong, you tend to view what is happening in a positive way. If you become tired without doing very much, try working on old projects and not new ones. Focus your attention on God; be clear and concise in giving directions.

CANCER

Let go of the past; you must if you want to have a positive future. If you think that life is not suppose to be hard at times, you are wrong...In dealing with the ups and downs in life, it is what makes you strong. Stay positive and come out of your shell. Do not confine yourself to the immediate; look beyond the limits of your present environment. Happiness is found within, make sure you share it with others. Come out of your shell, God is...

LEO

Use discretion in speaking and good sense when dealing with others. Get a friend's opinion about education and knowledge. Be sure you are right before you contradict a person in authority. Personality development can go forward now. Do everything possible to avoid giving cause for criticism. Have confidence in your abilities and learn to depend on your own efforts and imagination. Invite a new friend to have lunch or dinner in an exciting and unusual restaurant. Keep your evenings open and relaxed. God will be there, have more faith.

VIRGO

Do not complain about money matters or social inequalities in front of children. Your efforts to promote a business may fall short; keep your wit. If you visit a friend or relative, try to keep your conversation bright and gay. Avoid quarrels with work associates who are hostile. Guard your career prestige. Look, act and speak your best. Don't drive yourself too hard and don't stay out too late. God is the key.
